Cabinet Position For Strauss Is Backed By Teller

Hydrogen Bomb Expert Contradicts Previous Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nuclear scientist Dr. Edward Teller testified Wednesday that Secretary of Commerce Lewis L. Strauss has been an effective, outstanding supporter of science and scientists.

The friendly words, from the man who frequently is credited with perfecting the hydrogen bomb, were in stark contradiction to those last week of two other physicists, David R. Inglis and David L. Hill.

The forum for all three was a hearing by the Senate Commerce Committee. In an atmosphere of controversy, it is considering whether to recommend Senate approval of Strauss' appointment to the Cabinet.

Charges of lying and deceit have been flung on both sides of the issue.

Accused Of Lying

Strauss has accused the two critical scientists of lying. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM) has accused Strauss of lying, and Strauss accused Anderson of lying.

It was a point by point reply by Strauss to two days of attacks by Anderson. And it was a detailed follow-up to a blanket complaint Tuesday that he was being persecuted with false charges, defamation and cruel accusations.

Strauss declared that "I have created no myths," as Anderson said he sought to do, about his accomplishments of the H-bomb and on a system for detecting Soviet nuclear explosions.

With respect to the latter, he noted that Anderson had said that "Strauss claims that he did it all."

"This is false," the secretary said. "I have never made so ridiculous a claim but also I am not willing to have my role in this, of which I am proud, written off."

Anderson isn't one of the Commerce committee members. But he sat with them at the committee table. Under the rules, he was barred from questioning Strauss. So he whispered to Sen. Dale McGee (D-Wyo), who quizzed Strauss repeatedly.

Secretary Blew Up

As a result the secretary blew up at one point.

"I didn't have the opportunity of cross-examining you during your testimony," he thundered at Anderson. "And—oh, forget it."

Flushing angrily, he turned his head aside.

Strauss has been in the Cabinet for nearly six months. President Eisenhower nominated him in November to be commerce secretary, when Congress wasn't in session. He submitted the nomination to the Senate formally on Jan. 17.

Thus with more time to go, the Strauss nomination already has been held up as long as those of all 13 of his predecessors combined, government officials say.

Japan Ignores Soviet Demand For Neutrality

TOKYO (AP)—Japan gave the cold shoulder Wednesday to a Soviet demand for neutrality, latest move in the Communist campaign to win Asia's biggest industrial power away from the West.

Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi and Foreign Minister Aiichiro Fujiyama told a conference of governors that Japan's security pact with the United States must be revised and reaffirmed to safeguard the nation.

That appeared to be the position Japan will take in reply to a note from Moscow Monday demanding that this island nation get rid of all foreign military bases and hew to a policy of neutrality.

Kishi discussed the Soviet note with his Cabinet, and told newsmen he will send a formal reply to Moscow.

The security pact gives the United States the right to maintain military bases here. It is the target of Communist attack now because it is being renegotiated.

In note after note in the past 11 months, in hundreds of editorials and radio broadcasts, in ambassadorial speeches, and in cocktail party chitchat, Moscow and Peiping have hit the same theme: Japan must become neutral in the East-West cold war.

16-Year-Old Babysitter Is Jailed For Kidnaping

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Slight, button-nosed Betty Smithey went to jail and the infant she kidnaped while baby sitting was flown home to New Mexico Wednesday.

Betty, 16, fugitive from a reformatory outside Albuquerque faced a federal charge of taking 18-month-old Mitchell Johnson from his parents' home Monday morning.

"I don't know why I did it—I just took him," the orphaned teenager told questioners.

Seemingly pleased at all the attention, Betty told sketchily of being confined as a runaway in New Mexico institutions and said she had been without a family home because both her parents are dead.

"I've lived with my five sisters when I wasn't wandering," the girl said.

Her efforts to give bright-eyed Mitchell to strangers in a Dallas drugstore led to recovery of the baby, unharmed and healthy, Wednesday morning.

Hitching a ride with a trucker near Albuquerque two days ago, Betty took the youngster to Woodward, Okla., then came here by bus Tuesday.

The trucker gave her $14, she related, and she spent all but $1.50 to buy the baby milk and soup and pay for their lodging in small hotels.

An airline flew the toddler back to his relieved parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson. They were to meet him in Albuquerque, 20 miles southwest of their home in the mountain village of Placitas, N.M.

Publishers Pay To Avoid Labor Fight

Senate Probers Told Extortionist Got $260,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — A New Jersey commercial firm which prints Sunday newspaper supplements has paid a convicted labor extortionist and his relatives nearly $260,000 to shield it from labor troubles, Senate investigators were told Wednesday.

Executives of the Neo Gravure Printing Co., Weehawken, N. J., testified $131,459.95 went to Harold Gross over the past 14 years, since his release from prison. On top of that, they said, they have paid a total of $128,376.95 to certain of Gross' relatives.

Relatives On Payroll

The company officials said they were forced to put these relatives on the payroll along with Gross, now a Teamsters Union official in Miami but still drawing payments from Neo Gravure. Charles E. Chenicke, vice president of the firm, said Gross does no actual work for Neo Gravure but is paid to assure labor peace.

An investigator for the Senate rackets probers said other payments to Cornelius Noonan, president of a New York longshoremen's union local, brought the total to $307,136.80.

Neo Gravure prints Sunday supplements for the New York Journal-American, the New York Daily Mirror, the New York Herald-Tribune, and the Boston Herald. It printed some Sunday sections for the New York Times until 1949 when the Times switched to another printing company.

Besides printing newspaper supplements, Neo Gravure prints magazines and business forms as well as doing lithography work.

The committee was told Gross got $4,000 a year between 1952 and 1958 for seeing to it that jurisdictional labor disputes didn't prevent delivery of the American Weekly supplement to the Journal-American. The cost of this was passed on to the American Weekly, Chenicek said.

Arranged Deliveries

William Hillbrant, Neo Gravure's treasurer, swore he paid a total of $45,750 to Gross and Noonan to arrange deliveries of supplements to the New York Times and the Mirror during a 1948 truck strike called by the Teamsters. Neo Gravure executives said the entire cost was billed to the two newspapers.

Testimony about Gross came as the special Senate committee pressed ahead with its inquiry into the Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union of New York and vicinity. This is an independent organization numbering about 4,500 drivers.

Former Steel Chairman Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Myron C. Taylor, 85, former chairman of the U.S. Steel Corp. and former presidential representative to Pope Pius XII with the rank of ambassador, died Wednesday in his home.

Taylor was with U.S. steel for more than 30 years. After his retirement as board chairman at the age of 64 he served in various governmental assignments.

But it was the assignment to the Vatican, with its resulting controversy, which gained Taylor the nation's widest attention.

Named to the post in 1939 by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Taylor served for 10 years, acting also as President Harry S. Truman's personal representative to Pope Pius XII.

There was widespread Protestant objection to the new post but Taylor himself did not take part in the dispute.

Florida Jury Indicts Four Men In Rape Of Negro Coed

Arraignment Set Friday; Victim Among Witnesses

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — An all-white grand jury Wednesday indicted four young white men on rape charges in the abduction and assault upon a Negro coed.

The grand jury, called into special session, heard 18 witnesses including the slender victim, a student at all-Negro Florida A&M University here. She described how she was seized, bound and gagged and raped six times. The four defendants were arrested by a deputy sheriff who gave chase to the suspects' car and found the half-nude girl lying on the floor of the back seat.

Rape is a capital crime in Florida. There was no demonstration by more than 100 Negroes seated in a segregated third-floor gallery or from about 20 whites in the courtroom when the grand jury foreman handed the presentment to the judge who said: "I accept the true bill."

Arraignment Set Friday

The 18-member grand jury was in session for six and a half hours. The Negro spectators, many of them classmates of the victim, sat patiently awaiting the outcome.

Arraignment was set for 9 a.m. Friday.

The witnesses included two doctors, one white and one Negro, who had examined the girl earlier and told police she had been raped.

Police charged that the four youths, one of them a high school student and another only 16 years old, forced the girl into their car at the point of a shotgun early last Saturday. They said her hands were bound and she was raped by each of the defendants.

Arrest Photographer

The defendants, arrested by a deputy sheriff after a high-speed chase, are Ollie Stoutamire, 16, Patrick C. Scarborough, 20, David E. Beagles, 18, and Willon Collinsworth, 24.

As the grand jury session opened in the Leon County Courthouse diagonally across the street from the state Capitol, police arrested newsreel photographer William Cavanaugh for violating a "no pictures" ban laid down by Circuit Judge W. May Walker.

Sheriff William P. Joyce, who had four deputies patrolling the courthouse to enforce the ban, said Cavanaugh was on the courthouse lawn taking pictures of those entering the front door. He was released after a brief hearing at which Judge Walker said Cavanaugh apparently was unaware of the ban on pictures.

Name Withheld

The girl was brought to the courthouse in secret by a police squad car. She was accompanied by her mother, brother and a nurse from Florida A&M University hospital where she had been held for observation since the attack. The hospital administrator also was with her.

Alitalia said it was interecepted by fighters over the Khorramshahr area on the Iran-Iraq frontier at the Persian Gulf and forced to land at Baghdad.

Police said the dead girl was stabbed 48 times when she and her friend were assaulted by the boy, described as a "brilliant genius." (AP Photofax).

Girl Stabbed To Death By Young Student

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A sensitive, intelligent 13-year-old boy described as a "nice guy" and a brilliant student stabbed one little girl to death and slashed another when they resisted his sexual advances in a berry patch, police said Wednesday.

Psychiatric tests were ordered for the youth, Edward A. Herty, an honor student and a Boy Scout. A probation officer said a hearing would be held and that the youth probably would be committed to an institution until he is 21.

Police Department Maj. Al Theriot said Herty, an eighth grade pupil, admitted the savage attacks on the two girls in a wooded area after school Tuesday, saying he had become "very friendly" with the girl who was slain but that she resisted his advances. The girl, 12-year-old Cathy Fehler, was stabbed 48 times with the three-inch blade of a dagger-like knife.

The other girl, Judy Guillot, 11, suffered critical stab wounds in the back and neck which may have severed nerves. The knife blade broke in Cathy's body and this may have saved Judy from fatal wounds.

Cathy, police said, was sexually molested. Herty was arrested shortly after the girls were found sprawled in the woods and he was held by juvenile authorities for delinquency, for murder and for attempted murder.

Theriot said Herty showed no remorse. "He was calm, cool and collected. It didn't seem to bother him at all."

Tucumcari General Hospital attendants said she had been severely cut and bruised. They listed her condition Wednesday as fair.

Gunmen Rob Bank Of $58,982

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP)—Two polite, businesslike gunmen robbed a bank of $58,982 Wednesday night after holding the manager, his wife and his father captive all night.

They cleaned out the vault of a Bank of America branch, drove off in the manager's automobile and then switched to their own car.

The masked robbers forced manager Frank Colella to take them into the bank just before 9 a.m., locked 16 employes and the Colellas in a storeroom and calmly waited for the time lock to open the vault.

Colella, 42, his wife, Winifred, 42, and his father, E. R. Colella, 66, had been the gunmen's prisoners since 8:45 p.m. Tuesday.

The bandits gained entrance to Colella's home when one rapped on the door and said: "This is Sgt. Murphy of the police."

The gunmen joined the Colellas in watching television and drinking coffee. At 11 p.m. they ordered the family upstairs to bed.

At 5 a.m. the robbers got the Colellas up and had them fix breakfast.

Then all got into Colella's car and drove around until amost 9 a.m.

Share Profit Plan Would Offset Strike

Industry Hopes Contract Talks Won't Force Use

NEW YORK (AP) — The steel industry disclosed Wednesday it is considering a mutual aid pact to share profits if only some steel firms are closed down by a July 1 strike.

R. Conrad Cooper, chief spokesman for US.. Steel Corp. and the industry in current wage talks with the Steelworkers Union, said the industry is working on such a plan even though hoping never to have to use it.

Partial Strike Possible

The possibility of a partial rather than an industrywide union strike—if there is no new agreement when present contracts run out June 30—was raised by Iron Age, industry trade publication.

Saying it would take a miracle to avert a July 1 walkout, Iron Age suggested the union may try divide-and-conquer tactics by striking some companies to apply greater pressure on them while the rest of the industry is allowed to keep producing.

But Cooper said the union always has operated on a non-contract no-work policy—shutting down all companies at once—whenever there has been a strike.

Both he and David J. McDonald, union president, emphasized neither side was thinking in terms of a strike, either industrywide or partial, but concentrating on reaching a peace pact.

Cooper said the steel industry has watched the operation of a strike-aid plan adopted last fall by the nation's six major airlines when faced with a rash of strikes. They reimbursed each other for extra profits earned while competitors were strikebound.

Open Negotiations

The union Wednesday opened negotiations with seven more steel companies, making a total of 11 bargaining conferences going on in the same hotel. One more starts Thursday. This unwieldy situation soon is to boil down to one set of industry wide talks.

A major subject discussed in the closed bargaining talks Wednesday was the industry's claim that soaring wage costs were crippling its ability to compete in world markets, even letting foreign producers make inroads in domestic markets here.

Ike Chauffeurs Churchill On Farm Tour In Golf Cart

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

Then they switched to a helicopter for an aerial inspection of part of the Civil War Gettysburg battlefield, site of one of history's classic conflicts. Eisenhower's country estate is on the edge of the battlefield.

On the farm tour, the baby-blue golf cart listed slightly to the starboard under the 84-year-old Churchill's weight as he and Eisenhower rode in the hot sunshine.

Britain's former prime minister—wearing a pin-stripe gray business suit and a broad-brimmed white hat from the U.S. West—traveled to the farm from Washington in a Marine helicopter. He and Eisenhower arrived at midafternoon and stayed at the farm about 90 minutes.

Churchill, somewhat feeble, required a good bit of help from aides and Secret Service agents as he climbed from the copter to a pasture on the Eisenhower farm.

Before setting out on the aerial tour, a newsman asked Churchill what he thought of his host's farm. The aging statesman failed to hear the question and it had to be repeated twice before he caught it.

Then he replied with a slow smile: "Lovely."

After circling the battlefield area they returned by helicopter to Washington, arriving at 4:47 p.m. Churchill was to be Eisenhower's guest Wednesday night at a White House stag dinner.

Named to the post in 1939 by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Taylor served for 10 years, acting also as President Harry S. Truman's personal representative to Pope Pius XII.

There was widespread Protestant objection to the new post but Taylor himself did not take part in the dispute.

Florida Jury Indicts Four Men In Rape Of Negro Coed

Arraignment Set Friday; Victim Among Witnesses

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — An all-white grand jury Wednesday indicted four young white men on rape charges in the abduction and assault upon a Negro coed.

The grand jury, called into special session, heard 18 witnesses including the slender victim, a student at all-Negro Florida A&M University here. She described how she was seized, bound and gagged and raped six times. The four defendants were arrested by a deputy sheriff who gave chase to the suspects' car and found the half-nude girl lying on the floor of the back seat.

Rape is a capital crime in Florida. There was no demonstration by more than 100 Negroes seated in a segregated third-floor gallery or from about 20 whites in the courtroom when the grand jury foreman handed the presentment to the judge who said: "I accept the true bill."

Arraignment Set Friday

The 18-member grand jury was in session for six and a half hours. The Negro spectators, many of them classmates of the victim, sat patiently awaiting the outcome.

Arraignment was set for 9 a.m. Friday.

The witnesses included two doctors, one white and one Negro, who had examined the girl earlier and told police she had been raped.

Police charged that the four youths, one of them a high school student and another only 16 years old, forced the girl into their car at the point of a shotgun early last Saturday. They said her hands were bound and she was raped by each of the defendants.

Arrest Photographer

The defendants, arrested by a deputy sheriff after a high-speed chase, are Ollie Stoutamire, 16, Patrick C. Scarborough, 20, David E. Beagles, 18, and Willon Collinsworth, 24.

As the grand jury session opened in the Leon County Courthouse diagonally across the street from the state Capitol, police arrested newsreel photographer William Cavanaugh for violating a "no pictures" ban laid down by Circuit Judge W. May Walker.

Sheriff William P. Joyce, who had four deputies patrolling the courthouse to enforce the ban, said Cavanaugh was on the courthouse lawn taking pictures of those entering the front door. He was released after a brief hearing at which Judge Walker said Cavanaugh apparently was unaware of the ban on pictures.

Name Withheld

The girl was brought to the courthouse in secret by a police squad car. She was accompanied by her mother, brother and a nurse from Florida A&M University hospital where she had been held for observation since the attack. The hospital administrator also was with her.

Italian Plane Is Forced Down By Iraq Fighters

ROME (AP) — The Italian Airline Alitalia said Wednesday night one of its passenger liners had been forced down in Baghdad by Iraqi fighter planes while flying from Tehran to Athens.

The airlines said it did not know the reasons for the Iraqi action. It asked the Italian Foreign Ministry to make an immediate protest and take diplomatic steps to have the plane released.

Alitalia said it was interecepted by fighters over the Khorramshahr area on the Iran-Iraq frontier at the Persian Gulf and forced to land at Baghdad.

Delegates Plan Tibetian Meeting

CALCUTTA, India (AP)—Unofficial delegates from a number of Asian nations plan to meet here May 30-31 to rally Asian opinion against Communist Chinese repression in Tibet.

Victim, Slayer

Cathy Fehler, 12, (above), was stabbed to death Tuesday, the victim of 13-year-old Edward Herty whose advances she resisted, police said. The New Orleans youth is taken from the hospital by Patrolman Roland Molinario (right) after he was identified by another stabbing victim, Judy Guillot, 12, who was seriously wounded when young Cathy was slain. Police said the dead girl was stabbed 48 times when she and her friend were assaulted by the boy, described as a "brilliant genius."

Girl Stabbed To Death By Young Student

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A sensitive, intelligent 13-year-old boy described as a "nice guy" and a brilliant student stabbed one little girl to death and slashed another when they resisted his sexual advances in a berry patch, police said Wednesday.

Psychiatric tests were ordered for the youth, Edward A. Herty, an honor student and a Boy Scout. A probation officer said a hearing would be held and that the youth probably would be committed to an institution until he is 21.

Police Department Maj. Al Theriot said Herty, an eighth grade pupil, admitted the savage attacks on the two girls in a wooded area after school Tuesday, saying he had become "very friendly" with the girl who was slain but that she resisted his advances. The girl, 12-year-old Cathy Fehler, was stabbed 48 times with the three-inch blade of a dagger-like knife.

The other girl, Judy Guillot, 11, suffered critical stab wounds in the back and neck which may have severed nerves. The knife blade broke in Cathy's body and this may have saved Judy from fatal wounds.

Cathy, police said, was sexually molested. Herty was arrested shortly after the girls were found sprawled in the woods and he was held by juvenile authorities for delinquency, for murder and for attempted murder.

Theriot said Herty showed no remorse. "He was calm, cool and collected. It didn't seem to bother him at all."

Youth Accused Of Girl's Assault

TUCUMCARI, N.M. (AP) — A husky 15-year-old high school sophomore was accused Wednesday of beating and trying to rape a 15-year-old classmate, then leaving her for dead.

The youth, Wayne Granger, was charged with assault with intent to kill and assault to rape.

Granger pleaded innocent. Trial in Juvenile Court was set for May 29. He was freed under $1,500 bond.

The girl was found Tuesday south of Tucumcari in a clump of mesquite bushes, covered with tumbleweeds.

Tucumcari General Hospital attendants said she had been severely cut and bruised. They listed her condition Wednesday as fair.

Gunmen Rob Bank Of $58,982

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP)—Two polite, businesslike gunmen robbed a bank of $58,982 Wednesday night after holding the manager, his wife and his father captive all night.

They cleaned out the vault of a Bank of America branch, drove off in the manager's automobile and then switched to their own car.

The masked robbers forced manager Frank Colella to take them into the bank just before 9 a.m., locked 16 employes and the Colellas in a storeroom and calmly waited for the time lock to open the vault.

Colella, 42, his wife, Winifred, 42, and his father, E. R. Colella, 66, had been the gunmen's prisoners since 8:45 p.m. Tuesday.

The bandits gained entrance to Colella's home when one rapped on the door and said: "This is Sgt. Murphy of the police."

The gunmen joined the Colellas in watching television and drinking coffee. At 11 p.m. they ordered the family upstairs to bed.

At 5 a.m. the robbers got the Colellas up and had them fix breakfast.

Then all got into Colella's car and drove around until amost 9 a.m.

Share Profit Plan Would Offset Strike

Industry Hopes Contract Talks Won't Force Use

NEW YORK (AP) — The steel industry disclosed Wednesday it is considering a mutual aid pact to share profits if only some steel firms are closed down by a July 1 strike.

R. Conrad Cooper, chief spokesman for US.. Steel Corp. and the industry in current wage talks with the Steelworkers Union, said the industry is working on such a plan even though hoping never to have to use it.

Partial Strike Possible

The possibility of a partial rather than an industrywide union strike—if there is no new agreement when present contracts run out June 30—was raised by Iron Age, industry trade publication.

Saying it would take a miracle to avert a July 1 walkout, Iron Age suggested the union may try divide-and-conquer tactics by striking some companies to apply greater pressure on them while the rest of the industry is allowed to keep producing.

But Cooper said the union always has operated on a non-contract no-work policy—shutting down all companies at once—whenever there has been a strike.

Both he and David J. McDonald, union president, emphasized neither side was thinking in terms of a strike, either industrywide or partial, but concentrating on reaching a peace pact.

Cooper said the steel industry has watched the operation of a strike-aid plan adopted last fall by the nation's six major airlines when faced with a rash of strikes. They reimbursed each other for extra profits earned while competitors were strikebound.

Open Negotiations

The union Wednesday opened negotiations with seven more steel companies, making a total of 11 bargaining conferences going on in the same hotel. One more starts Thursday. This unwieldy situation soon is to boil down to one set of industry wide talks.

A major subject discussed in the closed bargaining talks Wednesday was the industry's claim that soaring wage costs were crippling its ability to compete in world markets, even letting foreign producers make inroads in domestic markets here.

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

Then they switched to a helicopter for an aerial inspection of part of the Civil War Gettysburg battlefield, site of one of history's classic conflicts. Eisenhower's country estate is on the edge of the battlefield.

On the farm tour, the baby-blue golf cart listed slightly to the starboard under the 84-year-old Churchill's weight as he and Eisenhower rode in the hot sunshine.

Britain's former prime minister—wearing a pin-stripe gray business suit and a broad-brimmed white hat from the U.S. West—traveled to the farm from Washington in a Marine helicopter. He and Eisenhower arrived at midafternoon and stayed at the farm about 90 minutes.

Churchill, somewhat feeble, required a good bit of help from aides and Secret Service agents as he climbed from the copter to a pasture on the Eisenhower farm.

Before setting out on the aerial tour, a newsman asked Churchill what he thought of his host's farm. The aging statesman failed to hear the question and it had to be repeated twice before he caught it.

Then he replied with a slow smile: "Lovely."

After circling the battlefield area they returned by helicopter to Washington, arriving at 4:47 p.m. Churchill was to be Eisenhower's guest Wednesday night at a White House stag dinner.

Administration Is Opposed To Term Repeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers was pictured Wednesday as flatly opposed to repeal now of the constitutional ban on a president serving more than two terms.

He will present this view to the Senate Judiciary Committee, which is considering a move to scrap the 22nd Amendment, newsmen were told at the White House by Republican congressional leaders.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the GOP Senate and House leaders, made the announcement on emerging from a conference with President Eisenhower. And as for their own views?

Halleck said he, too, is completely against repeal. Dirksen said, he, like Eisenhower, doesn't feel strongly and could vote one way or the other. Dirksen said there apparently is no great interest in the matter on the part of the public.

This followed by one day a statement by Eisenhower indicating that although he doesn't feel strongly on the question he is against repeal.

This is in direct conflict with the stand of former President Harry S. Truman, who testified this week that the amendment makes a second-term chief executive a "lame duck president." It should be repealed, he said.

The executive branch plays no direct role in changing the Constitution, although it may state its views. Amendments or repeals require a two-thirds vote of each house of Congress and ratification by three-fourths of the states. The President's signature is not required.

The 22nd amendment imposing the two-term limit was adopted while Truman was in office and does not apply to him. Many Democrats have called it a posthumous slap at Franklin D. Roosevelt. Eisenhower is the first chief executive it affects.

Wreckage Found In Mountains Is Missing Plane

LINCON, N.H. (AP) — Wreckage of a long-missing airplane was spotted in a mountain wilderness here Wednesday and a ground party grimly hacked its way through thick woods to find the bodies of two prominent Hanover physicians.

Their small craft crashed in the heart of the White Mountain National Forest during a blinding snowstorm more than two months ago.

Drs. Ralph E. Miller, 60, and Robert W. Quinn, 32, vanished last Feb. 21 in a red and cream colored single engine plane while flying from Berlin to Lebanon on the return leg of a mercy mission. They had been to Berlin to treat a heart patient.

Nuclear Tests Dangerous At Present Pace

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government scientist testified Wednesday that nuclear weapons tests cannot be continued indefinitely at levels of recent years without causing dangerous worldwide radiation.

Dr. Wright Langham, biologist at the Atomic Energy Commission's Los Alamos, N.M., scientific laboratory, said it appears that radiation caused by tests already conducted eventually will reach 10 per cent of the maximum permissible dose as calculated by one authority.

Langham testified at hearings being conducted by the radiation subcommittee of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

The world's three nuclear powers—the United States, Great Britain and the Soviet Union — now are engaged in talks at Geneva on a possible halt to future nuclear bomb tests.

However, Langham said that if no other tests are held, the average worldwide amount of Strontium 90 in the bones of human beings would reach seven micromicrocuries per gram of calcium by the time all of the fallout from prior explosions has reached the earth. He estimated this would be not later than 1967.

Strontium 90 is a long-lived radioactive substance produced in nuclear explosions. It tends to enter the bone structure of humans who may drink milk or eat vegetables in which it is present. In sufficient quantities, it causes bone cancer.

The biologist said such a dose would be 10 per cent of the 66 micromicrocuries fixed recently by the International Committee on Radiation Protection as the maximum permissible level. A similar U.S. national committee has set 200 micromicrocuries as the maximum, however.

Langham said that if the average dose on a worldwide basis reached one-tenth of the maximum permissible dose, there would be some locations where the amount would be dangerous.

Space Program Gets Approval Of UN Group

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A U.N. committee approved Wednesday a United States plan for getting the world started on international cooperation into peaceful use of outer space.

The Soviet Union and four other nations boycotted the opening meeting of the committee. The United States did not mention the boycott. But Britain and Sweden voiced regret and expressed hope the absent countries would join in the committee's work later.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge proposed to the 18-nation Committee on Peaceful Uses of Outer Space that it set up two separate study groups—one on the scientific and the other on the legal aspects of the subject.

There was no objection and the committee decided to meet again Thursday to hear the views of experts.

Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, deputy director of the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration, will be the first speaker.

Lodge declared that in no field of endeavor is world cooperation more necessary.

He said that if the nations of the world cooperate tremendous benefits can be expected in the fairly near future from earth satellites.

Among such benefits he listed long-range weather forecasting, the improvement of radio communications, and far more accurate mapping of unexplored areas of the earth.

As long-range possibilities he mentioned setting up of an astronomical telescope in outer space and space travel by man.

Others who boycotted the meeting were Poland, Czechoslovakia, India and the United Arab Republic.

Liz, Eddie Set Date

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If Eddie Fisher can get the night off, he will marry Elizabeth Taylor next Tuesday in Las Vegas, Nev.

They want Michael Todd Jr., son of the actress' late husband, to be best man, so they had to set the date up two days. The wedding date originally was May 14. Then they learned young Todd has to be in Spain by that date.

"I don't finish here at the Tropicana until the 12th," Fisher said in a phone call Wednesday from Las Vegas, "and of course we would never be married on the 13th."

So Fisher has to find someone to replace him on his wedding night. "I know the hotel will give me the night off," he said.

Fisher expects to get a Nevada divorce from actress Debbie Reynolds on Monday, the day his six-week legal residence ends. Miss Reynolds said she would not contest it.

However, Miss Reynolds' California divorce will not be final until next February, hence Fisher and Miss Taylor can not, until then, live legally as man and wife in California. He says that's no problem.

There will be two ceremonies in Las Vegas, Fisher said. First there will be a civil marriage, and then a Jewish rite performed by Rabbi Max Nussbaum who recently converted Miss Taylor to Fisher's faith.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Assn. of Manufacturers Wednesday announced appointment of Charles A. Lothe as vice president in charge of industrial relations.

Space Program Gets Approval Of UN Group

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A U.N. committee approved Wednesday a United States plan for getting the world started on international cooperation into peaceful use of outer space.

The Soviet Union and four other nations boycotted the opening meeting of the committee. The United States did not mention the boycott. But Britain and Sweden voiced regret and expressed hope the absent countries would join in the committee's work later.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge proposed to the 18-nation Committee on Peaceful Uses of Outer Space that it set up two separate study groups—one on the scientific and the other on the legal aspects of the subject.

There was no objection and the committee decided to meet again Thursday to hear the views of experts.

Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, deputy director of the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration, will be the first speaker.

Lodge declared that in no field of endeavor is world cooperation more necessary.

He said that if the nations of the world cooperate tremendous benefits can be expected in the fairly near future from earth satellites.

Among such benefits he listed long-range weather forecasting, the improvement of radio communications, and far more accurate mapping of unexplored areas of the earth.

As long-range possibilities he mentioned setting up of an astronomical telescope in outer space and space travel by man.

Others who boycotted the meeting were Poland, Czechoslovakia, India and the United Arab Republic.

Liz, Eddie Set Date

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If Eddie Fisher can get the night off, he will marry Elizabeth Taylor next Tuesday in Las Vegas, Nev.

They want Michael Todd Jr., son of the actress' late husband, to be best man, so they had to set the date up two days. The wedding date originally was May 14. Then they learned young Todd has to be in Spain by that date.

"I don't finish here at the Tropicana until the 12th," Fisher said in a phone call Wednesday from Las Vegas, "and of course we would never be married on the 13th."

So Fisher has to find someone to replace him on his wedding night. "I know the hotel will give me the night off," he said.

Fisher expects to get a Nevada divorce from actress Debbie Reynolds on Monday, the day his six-week legal residence ends. Miss Reynolds said she would not contest it.

However, Miss Reynolds' California divorce will not be final until next February, hence Fisher and Miss Taylor can not, until then, live legally as man and wife in California. He says that's no problem.

There will be two ceremonies in Las Vegas, Fisher said. First there will be a civil marriage, and then a Jewish rite performed by Rabbi Max Nussbaum who recently converted Miss Taylor to Fisher's faith.

Farms Still Top Problem At Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the most perplexing problems facing politicians planning for next year's presidential race is what to do about the farm problem.

Doubtless some leaders of both major parties wish the matter could be ignored. That's largely because sharp divisions exist within the parties on what should be done — if anything — to provide more economic help for agriculture.

Adding to the confusion is the question: How strong is the farm vote?

Whether they like it or not, Republicans face the prospect of defending the farm aid proposals and record of the Eisenhower administration. Yet, there will be strong forces within the party — largely represented by Republican congressmen — who will try to get the party to pledge greater help for producers than that offered and desired by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson.

But the Democrats have no clear-cut advantage at this moment, despite criticism being fired from many directions at the GOP administration record. There are many Democrats in Congress, representing for the most part urban areas, who are in sympathy with the Benson idea that government should get out of agriculture.

These Democrats see in such an avenue possible lower prices for food and lower taxes for their constituents. They dislike the idea of spending upwards of five billion dollars a year of tax funds for farm programs.

Interest in the farm issue is held by a third political force, the farmer's own organizations. But these groups, like both political parties, are divided on the question.

Significantly, President Charles B. Shuman of the influential American Farm Bureau Federation says he doubts the farm question will be much of an issue next year. Although he is a Democrat, Shuman takes the position that most farmers want less government in agriculture.

The Farm Bureau leader thinks his party would be smart to kick out the bulk of the federal aid before election time.

Yet the National Farmers Union long a critic of the Republicans, is not willing to see this happen. It will insist that pledges be made to increase farmer returns, either through direct subsidies or higher price supports.

Top Soldiers At NATO Tell Bosses To Look Soviet In Eye

PARIS (AP)—The top soldiers of NATO have bluntly told their political bosses to look the Soviet Union in the eye at any summit conference.

"If there is another Munich it won't be our fault," said one gruff general who daily weighs the military implications of threats from Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

This pointed advice to Western diplomats was based on a soldier's faith in the military machine forged in 10 years by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The machine has some bad flaws, the general readily admitted, but it can do the job.

In essence, this was the message given to the 15 NATO nations after they, somewhat apprehensively, set about reassessing their strength in the light of Khrushchev's ominous jabs at Berlin.

The supreme allied commander in Europe, Gen. Lauris Norstad—now adding wrinkles to his still boyish 52-year-old face — flew to Washington to report to the U.S. Congress.

Norstad asked for more missile to beef up his thin defense. The present 21½ divisions in NATO's central European arsenal are not enough, he said. He wants 30 divisions with atomic arms.

Despite these seeming shortcomings, Norstad said his forces could go a long way toward backing up any Western diplomatic decisions. His international staff agrees and there are some trump cards which have strengthened their beliefs.

These soldierly views enabled NATO's diplomats to display confidence and unity when the diplomats gathered in the United States April 4 for the 10th anniversary ceremonies of the organization.

Much of the diplomatic icing is increasingly tempered and strengthened by the judgments coming from Norstad's sprawling, informal headquarters outside Paris.

In this little Pentagon American, British, French and other Allied officers work easily with German ex-Wermacht officers now beginning to play bigger and bigger roles.

It is accepted here, as an article of faith, that the U.S. Strategic Air Command and the British Bomber Command can adequately deliver the massive H-bomb deterrent to the Soviet heartland if the need arises. A second article of faith is that NATO's force can "hold the pass" in Europe, although the job would be pretty sloppy with the forces now available.

These are the sentiments of a wide range of Allied officers who daily witness the strength — and weaknesses—of the alliance. Interviews with NATO diplomats reflect the same frank admission of many flaws but confidence that NATO can do its job.

The job, simply stated, is to convince the Soviet Union that she can not overrun Europe and will not be allowed to chew up NATO nation-by-nation. To accomplish this, NATO must have diplomatic unity as well as military strength.

However, international rivalries die hard. Just keeping in step takes a disproportionate amount of NATO's time.

The ships involved were few but the action emphasized De Gaulle's belief that NATO should have national commands rather than international forces under integrated commands.

This is perhaps NATO's most serious internal argument.

The theory of integrated forces is lifeblood to Norstad and his deputy, ruddy-faced British paratrooper Sir Richard Nelson Gale, 62, a warrior whose career started in the World War I trenches of France.

The immediate effectiveness of NATO's forces is a question for both the Soviet Union and the West to ponder.

One factor making them tremendously effective is that Norstad already has the personal power to react immediately to any attack on NATO countries. He has warned in advance he will use atomic weapons.

Technically, Norstad is supposed to consult with his political bosses if he has time. However, the West has recognized in advance that Norstad might not have time, and has given him, in advance, the necessary direction.

Another factor is the push-button quick communications network Norstad now has. His troops are strung from Norway to the remote frontier of Turkey—where giant radars watch Soviet missile shoots—and he can get them into action immediately. American atomic warheads are generally close at hand and American missile units are scattered throughout NATO's forces, mainly in Germany, Italy and Turkey.

A third factor is NATO's sizeable network of supply dumps, ammunition depots, oil pipelines, nuclear stocks, hospitals and other military installations. The atomic devastation of Europe would have to be almost total to wipe out this network.

Without atomic weapons, the NATO force — mainly American, British, Canadian and German troops now that the French are off fighting in Algeria — would probably be run off the battlefiel ! by World War II standards. Yet with atomic weapons they are expected to hold.

Backing up the ground troops is a tactical air force which also packs a big atomic wallop. It is made up mainly of British, Canadian and American planes and the number is secret, although probably around 2,000 or more. Lacking are some 300 French fighters, held out of NATO's forces for years because the French demand their own atomic weapons as the price, and the U.S. says no.

Coming into service are American Redstone missiles which can carry atomic warheads 200 miles officially and probably more. These are now in Europe in insignificant quantities, however. The U. S. forces also have air-breathing Matador missiles in quantity and atomic shells are now trimmed down to fit the Army's biggest standard artillery pieces.

With this ground and air atomic firepower, officers at SHAPE confidently expect to be able to spread a belt of destruction through Soviet - held Europe stretching across East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia. By this awesome belt of desolation no coordinated Soviet units could pass—at least that is the theory. Beyond this, Strategic Air Command bombers would loose their H-bombs.

Train Service Is Discontinued

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission Wednesday authorized the Lehigh Valley Railroad to discontinue about sixty per cent of its passenger train service, effective at midnight next Monday, May 11.

The commission rejected the company's proposal to drop all main line passenger trains as of that time.

The ICC ordered the continuation of two trains operating between New York City and Buffalo-Suspension Bridge, N. Y., and two other trains operating between New York City and Lehighton, Pa.

The Lehigh Valley sought to drop all passenger service on grounds it was losing about four million dollars a year on the service.

The veteran newsman, a brother of Atty. Gen. J. Ferdinand Sybert, started his newspaper career after the armistice of World War I during which he served in the Army.

The appointment was announced Wednesday by SRC Chairman John J. McMullen. He said the commission considered itself "fortunate that a man of Mr. Sybert's experience and ability is available to mirror the progress of Maryland's fine, modern highway program."

Railroad Wants Hearing Denied

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad asked the Public Service Commission Wednesday to deny a rehearing of an order authorizing the railroad to abandon passenger service on the Parkton Local.

The PSC last month authorized the railroad to drop its eight daily passenger trains on the suburban line which runs north into Baltimore County from Baltimore City.

The day after handing down its ruling, the PSC ordered an investigation of the Pennsylvania's passenger service in Maryland and suggested that improvements are needed.

The Parkton Local Commuters Assn., using this order as justification, promptly filed a request for a rehearing of the original ruling.

The railroad has contended it is losing money on the Parkton service.

Crude Bomb Injures Two

BALTIMORE (AP) — A priest and the janitor of a Baltimore County Catholic church were cut about the face and body Wednesday by the explosion of a bottle containing a crude explosive made by a school boy.

The Rev. Austin Healy and John Jaworski, 60, of Bradshaw, were hit by flying glass in the blast in the auditorium of the St. Stephens school at Bradshaw.

Police said the janitor found a small glass vial in the room and called Father Healy. The blast occurred just after the priest had examined it and started to put it down.

There was no one else in the auditorium, and the 1,000 pupils in other rooms were unaware of the accident.

Police at first feared the unidentified youth, who had prepared the mixture Tuesday in the school's chemical laboratory, may have been among those who went to Washington Wednesday on a school-conducted tour with some of the explosive in his possession.

Baltimore County authorities contacted Washington police and asked them to search the youth, but he was not among the students making the trip.

Jaworski had reported that he saw a student place the vial in the auditorium.

Ion Microscope Magnifies Atom Two Million Times

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) —"Now look," says Dr. Erwin Mueller as he adjusts his amazing microscope.

You look through the eyepiece, and catch your breath.

For you are gazing at single individual atoms. They are magnified one to two million times their actual size.

You see hundreds of atoms, each a bright round dot. But so tiny that 80 million in a row equal one inch in length.

Their individual images dance on the fluorescent screen. These are the basic units of all living and material things.

These are atoms of platinum, arranged in nature's jewel-like symmetry of crystal patterns. You are seeing the atoms on the tip of the point of an ultra-sharp needle.

Dr. Mueller fiddles with some controls. Atoms suddenly fly away, pulled loose by electrical force, changing the pattern as new underlying crystal layers become visivle.

This microscope is unique, the invention of a physicist who believes "if you want to do something which is really good, then do it different than it has ever been done before."

Dr. Mueller, German-born professor of physics at the Pennsylvania State University, did just that in developing the field ion microscope which makes individual atoms visible for the first time.

It provides a new tool to learn how to make better, stronger metals. It could also have other potent practical benefits.

All metals consist of small crystals. Much of their strength comes from the arrangement of atoms in the crystals. But few metals contain all-perfect crystals. Holes and faults in the pattern create weaknesses. Under stress, these faults can slip through the crystal and make it break.

Dr. Meuller's microscope can actually see the atoms to spot imperfections, and check whether the imperfections can be pinned by adding other elements. Carbon atoms, for example, can pin or stop the motion of imperfections in crystals of iron and so make stronger steel.

His ion microscope evolved from a field emission electron microscope he developed 20 years ago in Berlin. With the older telescope he could see the crystal arrangements or patterns of atoms.

But he wanted to see individual atoms — and this he can do with his ion microscope. It is constructed mainly of a glass vacuum tube with metal electrodes inside to produce a powerful electrical field.

Microfilm Put In Pipeline For 1,255-Mile Trip

CORSICANA, Tex. (UPI) -- A piece of microfilm with greetings from the governors of 33 oil-producing states to the governor of Pennsylvania started a 1,255-mile journey through a 20-inch pipeline Tuesday from Corsicana to Titusville, Pa.

The messages were attached to a "pig;" that is, a pipeline scraper that is used to clean paraffin from the inside of pipelines.

The reason for the message was the observation of the 100th anniversary of the discovery of petroleum in the United States. Oil was first discovered in this country at Titusville.

Corsicana is where oil was first discovered in Texas and the Southwest. The first well at Corsicana was brought in in 1895.

Gov. Price Daniel of Texas addressed the crowd at Corsicana from Austin by means of a telephone and loudspeaker hookup.

Daniel said Texas has produced half of the nation's oil for the past 50 years.

Gen. E. O. Thompson, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, which administers oil production in the state, represented Daniel at Corsicana.

He inserted the messages from the governors into a special capsule, attached the capsule to the "pig" and put it into the pipeline at the Magnolia Pipeline Company's pumping station.

The capsule is expected to reach Titusville in about a month. Its arrival will signal the beginning of the oil centennial celebration there.

Santa Fe Rises Against Billboards

By SAUL PETT

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — The vigilantes still ride out of Santa Fe, when it s moonlight on the mesa and the shadows stretch long from the aspen and the cottonwoods.

Thin-lipped, grim, silent, they turn off their television sets, put out their thinking man's filters, slip into their loafers and out of their adobe houses. Saddling up their station wagons and convertibles, they ride north, jaws set, eyes clear, minds joined in a common resolve to protect a way of life.

There are the billboards on the highway north of town. People in Santa Fe don't like billboards fouling their scenery. So, at night, they cut them down, burn them down, or smear them up in red paint. They do this several times a year.

The billboard vigilantes are only one symptom of the special syndrome distinguishing Santa Fe.

It is a city devoutly determined to be different by remaining the same.

Other cities welcome new industry and business and progress in the form of paved streets. Here, these things are resisted, not always successfully but loudly. In other places, the voice of the artist may cry out alone and unheeded in an attic. In Santa Fe, the free soul is accepted and respected and, far from being ignored, is invited to join civic committees.

Santa Fe, which has a population of 34,000, has no industry to speak of and only enough business to accommodate tourists and legislators, its chief sources of income. Many of its streets remain unpaved, especially in the residential areas, where narrow lanes wind under fruit trees between the lovely earth-tinted adobe homes with their low flat roofs and dark beams jutting out under the eaves.

In one-third the town, it is now against the law to build any building, business or private dwelling, in anything but the adobe style. An artist aroused can be a tiger.

Not long ago some progress-minded radicals managed to push through a paved street in a residential district. The day it was completed an enraged sculptor tore out of his house with a sledge hammer and broke up a long stretch of curb.

Santa Feans can get mad over a variety of things — billboards, paving, street lights, modern buildings of glass and steel, a superhighway cutting across a lovely foothill of the majestic Sangre de Cristo Mountains.

But their most consistent source of irritation seems to come from Texas.

Santa Feans can tolerate Texas tourist money but not Texans. They grumble constantly that Texans are taking over their ski slopes in the winter and their trout streams in the summer.

Recently many people in town were enraged by a published picture showing several hundred skiers from Texas raising the Lone Star flag on a nearby ski slope.

"Such damned gall!" said a dignified lady of Spanish origin.

In Santa Fe, only the Spanish-Americans are referred to as natives. The Indians are called Indians and everyone else, regardless of how long they've been here, are Anglos. Both Spanish and English are spoken in the Legislature, in the courts and political campaigns.

The first families are Spanish. Many claim to be descended from the old conquistadores who came here in search of gold—an expedition which not only antedated the Mayflower but must have been even more crowded.

Santa Fe's Plaza has seen much of the ebb and flow of history. To begin with, it was an Indian pueblo. Then the Spanish set up shop here. Then the Indians retook the place and held it from 1680 to 1692, until the Spanish recaptured it.

It was at the Plaza that the covered wagons coming down from Independence, Mo., on the Santa Fe Trail ended their journey. It was here that ox-drivers, cowboys and gamblers used to locked in stocks or flogged in public. It was in the plaza that Billy the Kid once sat in chains.

Toddlers Keep Parents On Go While Shopping

NEW YORK (UPI) — The first time you take your toddler to a department store, wear the nearest thing to track shoes. Put money and such in pockets, for both hands must be free — unless you contain your child on a leash.

We went sans leash. I believe in freedom. I also had an expectation that my two-year-old would be on his best behavior. But I hadn't counted on all the fascinating things that could catch a youngster's eye.

He crawled under counters and dress racks, "playing tunnel." He ran up and down the aisles, into stock rooms and even into dressing rooms.

I retrieved him, with apologies, from dressing rooms in the women's department. But I had to send a young salesman after him when he invaded fitting rooms in the men's suit department.

In the jewelry department, he pressed his hands and nose against display cases, smudging them until they looked like free-form frosted glass.

Later, in a weak moment, he allowed me time to select a swim suit. I sat him on the counter while I concluded the purchase. He promptly grabbed the clerk's pencil and scribbled over her order book.

I failed, too, to prepare him for the elevator. He shuddered when the doors closed and paled when the thing moved. In desperation, he wrapped his arms around the nearest leg. The lady was very upset.

The next crisis came in the book department. I had promised him a new book if he behaved in the store. I couldn't prove he hadn't.

At one turn he zigged when he should have zagged, and almost at once there was a sound of books tumbling, followed by the sound of a child crying. My child.

I found him on the floor surrounded by the display he had tumbled. One of the books was "What Dr. Spock Didn't Tell Us." Among the things it didn't tell me was what to do with toddlers in department stores.

WEIRTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Proposed pay increases for the mayor and members of the city council have been turned down by Weirton voters. It had been proposed that the mayor's salary be increased from $500 to $1,500 and those of councilmen from $100 to $200 a year.

Ion Microscope Magnifies Atom Two Million Times

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) —"Now look," says Dr. Erwin Mueller as he adjusts his amazing microscope.

You look through the eyepiece, and catch your breath.

For you are gazing at single individual atoms. They are magnified one to two million times their actual size.

You see hundreds of atoms, each a bright round dot. But so tiny that 80 million in a row equal one inch in length.

Their individual images dance on the fluorescent screen. These are the basic units of all living and material things.

These are atoms of platinum, arranged in nature's jewel-like symmetry of crystal patterns. You are seeing the atoms on the tip of the point of an ultra-sharp needle.

Dr. Mueller fiddles with some controls. Atoms suddenly fly away, pulled loose by electrical force, changing the pattern as new underlying crystal layers become visivle.

This microscope is unique, the invention of a physicist who believes "if you want to do something which is really good, then do it different than it has ever been done before."

Dr. Mueller, German-born professor of physics at the Pennsylvania State University, did just that in developing the field ion microscope which makes individual atoms visible for the first time.

It provides a new tool to learn how to make better, stronger metals. It could also have other potent practical benefits.

All metals consist of small crystals. Much of their strength comes from the arrangement of atoms in the crystals. But few metals contain all-perfect crystals. Holes and faults in the pattern create weaknesses. Under stress, these faults can slip through the crystal and make it break.

Dr. Meuller's microscope can actually see the atoms to spot imperfections, and check whether the imperfections can be pinned by adding other elements. Carbon atoms, for example, can pin or stop the motion of imperfections in crystals of iron and so make stronger steel.

His ion microscope evolved from a field emission electron microscope he developed 20 years ago in Berlin. With the older telescope he could see the crystal arrangements or patterns of atoms.

But he wanted to see individual atoms — and this he can do with his ion microscope. It is constructed mainly of a glass vacuum tube with metal electrodes inside to produce a powerful electrical field.

Microfilm Put In Pipeline For 1,255-Mile Trip

CORSICANA, Tex. (UPI) — A piece of microfilm with greetings from the governors of 33 oil-producing states to the governor of Pennsylvania started a 1,255-mile journey through a 20-inch pipeline Tuesday from Corsicana to Titusville, Pa.

The messages were attached to a "pig;" that is, a pipeline scraper that is used to clean paraffin from the inside of pipelines.

The reason for the message was the observation of the 100th anniversary of the discovery of petroleum in the United States. Oil was first discovered in this country at Titusville.

Corsicana is where oil was first discovered in Texas and the Southwest. The first well at Corsicana was brought in in 1895.

Gov. Price Daniel of Texas addressed the crowd at Corsicana from Austin by means of a telephone and loudspeaker hookup.

Daniel said Texas has produced half of the nation's oil for the past 50 years.

Gen. E. O. Thompson, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, which administers oil production in the state, represented Daniel at Corsicana.

He inserted the messages from the governors into a special capsule, attached the capsule to the "pig" and put it into the pipeline at the Magnolia Pipeline Company's pumping station.

The capsule is expected to reach Titusville in about a month. Its arrival will signal the beginning of the oil centennial celebration there.

Past Heads Present Program

Brief talks by past presidents featured the meeting of the Valley Road Homemakers Club, held yesterday at Central YMCA, with Mrs. Irene MacDonald presiding.

Mrs. John S. Cook introduced the past presidents and outlined classes, tours and speakers for College Week for Women, which will be June 15-20 on a "Vacation-Education" theme. Mrs. George Kraft read a poem, "Values," stressing: evaluate oneself, have ideas, try possibilities, talk less and say more. Mrs. Karl Bachman spoke of the food values and reported the egg as one of nature's nearly perfect foods. She also discussed the selection of herbs, spices, seeds, and blends of them. Mrs. Clarence Sweitzer read a poem, "What Will Mother Leave?" Mrs. Joseph Coleman speaking of clothing, stressed that one should not buy a garment without a label, and that a person over 35 should not follow the trend of youth.

A memorial for Miss Venia M. Keller and Miss Maude A. Bean was conducted by Mrs. G. Frank Malin, using a bowl of pine, iris and tulips as the emblem. Mrs. Malin spoke of Miss Bean's motto when she first came to Allegany County, as "Everyone Teach One," and how it was stressed that clubs and members share knowledge, and gave one of her quotes, "True Wishes."

The history of the hymn, "Beneath the Cross of Christ" was given by Mrs. Elsie Brinkman, who also sang a solo, "Mother." The hymn was sung by the group.

A talk on "Know How to Look Smart," was given by Mrs. William Kight. Scarfs, gloves, purses and jewelry were displayed. Members then evaluated their costumes and scored them. Mrs. Paul Heuer and Mrs. H. J. Rolly won the prizes for the best costumes. Mrs. MacDonald announced that the two graduates, Mrs. Rufus Nave and Miss Anna Kraft, and the delegate, Mrs. Brinkman, will be honored at the June 3 meeting. A social hour concluded the afternoon. Lilacs centered the refreshment table. Mrs. Bachman and Mrs. Nave poured tea. Thirty-three members and one new member, Mrs. John B. Stevens, attended.

East Side Club Honors Mothers

A Mothers Day program and reports featured the meeting of the East Side Homemakers Club, which was held Tuesday evening in the social room of Melvin Methodist Church. Mrs. Thomas Buser accompanied the group singing. Roll call was answered with "accessories."

The group selected its demonstration for the fair. Mrs. William Flora spoke on RWSC and the executive meeting attended by herself, Mrs. Clare Flora, Mrs. Buser, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Earl Smith, and Mrs. Daniel Klavuhn. Mrs. Smith reported on greeting cards sent. Routine reports were given and it was announced the club participated in the chorus' pageant. How To Reunite Germany Is Major Problem

By HERBERT ALTSCHULL

BONN, Germany (AP)—Like a colossus astride the Berlin crisis stands the major unsolved problem created by World War —— how to reunite a German nation split by the victorious Allies.

While the Soviet challenge to Allied rights in Berlin is what poses the threat of a new war, it is is the problem of reunification that must be settled if the cold war in Europe is ever to be eased.

The Allied powers, determined to smash Germany's warmaking capacity, carved the country into four zones of occupation. They acted after whittling away the eastern third of the country beyond the Oder and Neisse rivers, making it what appears to have become permanent territory of Poland and the Soviet Union.

The three Western zones of occupation were organized in 1949 into what has become Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's West Germany. The Soviet zone has become the German Democratic Republic, part of the Communist World.

The West maintains East Germany is a Soviet satellite and the regime does not speak for the 17 million East Germans.

This division might well have become permanent by now if it were not for Berlin, 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain.

Both East and West Berlin are still technically considered special occupied zones that have no direct legal connections with either Germany. But the Russians and the East Germans have long been insisting that East Berlin is the "sovereign" capital of a "sovereign" East Germany.

This is because the Big Four created a special category for Berlin at the end of the war and split it into four sectors.

Most students of the German scene are convinced the Russians are now eager to perpetuate the division of Germany but are unable to do so as long as the West remains in West Berlin.

Should the West ever renounce its belief in reunification of Germany it would have little reason to keep its troops in Berlin since the sole reason for maintaining the occupation of that city is to preserve it as the future capital of a reunited Germany.

The West has tried desperately to get the Russians to agree to reuniting Germany on the basis of free elections among the citizens of both halves of the country. The Russians have repeatedly turned that down, arguing that the two Germanys must work out reunification by themselves. This is impasse, deadlock.

One puzzling aspect is just how strong the desire for reunification actually is.

Some officials say privately the British and French would like to keep Germany divided to restrict its economic and military potential.

Even West Germans are sometimes said to be somewhat mild in their repeated calls for unity.

There are those who say the ruling Christian Democratic party, which is Catholic dominated, is disturbed about the potential threat to its political power if Protestant East Germany is incorporated in a unified nation. Many West Germans are unenthusiastic about the economic sacrifices that would be required to revitalize the East.

The East Germans are eager for reunification if only to improve their wretched economic lot.

A whole host of plans and counterplans have sprung up in Western capitals in an attempt to reach a compromise with the Russians and thus head off their threat to Berlin.

Most of these plans are military. But Western leaders argue that no military settlement is possible unless it is accompanied by political agreement. They are speaking of German reunification.

Appeals Court Reverses Va. School Ruling

In a reversal of a District Court decision allowing Prince Edward County a seven-year grace period, the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals ordered the rural southside county to prepare to admit qualified Negroes to white schools in September.

Thus the day of school-racial reckoning drew closer for the county whose officials have pledged to abandon public schools for private classes rather than accept integration.

The Prince Edward case, which has been in the federal courts since 1951, was one of the five that figured in the U.S. Supreme Court's historic desegregation decision of May 17, 1954.

Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. who finally conceded in January that total segregation could only be kept by abandonment of public education commented on the court decision:

"This may well point up the justification for the timely action of the special session of the General Assembly."

The Legislature last month enacted Almond's freedom of choice program designed to contain or minimize integration while continuing the public school system.

The court order did not necessarily mean integration or public school abandonment in Prince Edward next September. More likely it meant additional rounds of litigation on whether state pupil placements were being made solely on grounds of race.

The court noted in its opinion that other Virginia communities—Norfolk, Arlington and Alexandria—had proceeded with a degree of integration but that no move had been made by officials of Prince Edward to comply with the desegregation order.

Doctor's Picks Were Correct

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A bank vault was opened Monday and Dr. Spencer Thornton's Kentucky Derby choices—placed there Thursday—were disclosed.

The 29-year-old surgeon, who has specialized in the study of extrasensory perception, then made these predictions:

A major plane crash will occur in the New York-New Jersey vicinity Friday.

Mao Tse-tung, the Communist Chinese leader, will be replaced within a year—possibly because of death.

An uprising will occur in the Dominican Republic within five weeks, and the Trujillo government will be overthrown within nine months.

The invention of table tennis is credited to James Gibbs of England, who brought out the game between 1880 and 1890.

Chipmunk Song Gains Honors For Ross Bagdasarian

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A petulant chipmunk named Alvin helped composer Ross Bagdasarian rake in multiple honors from the newly formed National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences.

Bagdasarian received three "grammy" awards — miniature, gold-plated gramaphones—for his catchy work "The Chipmunk Song" at Monday night's first annual presentation ceremony.

The recording was voted best comedy performance, best children's song and best engineered record of 1958.

The top award went to an Italian, Domenico Modugno, for his "Volare." The Decca record was cited as the all-around best of the year. "Volare" also was named best song.

Perry Como's "Catch a Falling Star" won him the best male vocalist award and Ella Fitzgerald won two Grammies as the best female performer ("Irving Berlin Song Book") and No. 1 jazz artist ("Ella Sings Duke Ellington.")

Bob Hope Told To Slow Down

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Physicians have given Bob Hope another warning to slow down, a spokesman for the comedian said here.

Although a blood clot in one eye which caused him to be hospitalized recently has not been active, Hope has compiained on becoming easily tired.

As a result, he canceled a trip to San Francisco and another to New York City May 13 in connection with his latest movie, "Alias Jesse James."

In a reversal of a District Court decision allowing Prince Edward County a seven-year grace period, the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals ordered the rural southside county to prepare to admit qualified Negroes to white schools in September.

Thus the day of school-racial reckoning drew closer for the county whose officials have pledged to abandon public schools for private classes rather than accept integration.

The Prince Edward case, which has been in the federal courts since 1951, was one of the five that figured in the U.S. Supreme Court's historic desegregation decision of May 17, 1954.

Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. who finally conceded in January that total segregation could only be kept by abandonment of public education commented on the court decision:

"This may well point up the justification for the timely action of the special session of the General Assembly."

The Legislature last month enacted Almond's freedom of choice program designed to contain or minimize integration while continuing the public school system.

The court order did not necessarily mean integration or public school abandonment in Prince Edward next September. More likely it meant additional rounds of litigation on whether state pupil placements were being made solely on grounds of race.

The court noted in its opinion that other Virginia communities—Norfolk, Arlington and Alexandria—had proceeded with a degree of integration but that no move had been made by officials of Prince Edward to comply with the desegregation order.

Doctor's Picks Were Correct

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A bank vault was opened Monday and Dr. Spencer Thornton's Kentucky Derby choices—placed there Thursday—were disclosed.

The 29-year-old surgeon, who has specialized in the study of extrasensory perception, then made these predictions:

A major plane crash will occur in the New York-New Jersey vicinity Friday.

Mao Tse-tung, the Communist Chinese leader, will be replaced within a year—possibly because of death.

An uprising will occur in the Dominican Republic within five weeks, and the Trujillo government will be overthrown within nine months.

The invention of table tennis is credited to James Gibbs of England, who brought out the game between 1880 and 1890.

The top award went to an Italian, Domenico Modugno, for his "Volare." The Decca record was cited as the all-around best of the year. "Volare" also was named best song.

Local Girl Wounded By Gun Blast

A 17-year-old Allegany High School student was wounded yesterday morning while walking to school, when an old rifle which had been laid out for the trash collection was discharged after being kicked by another Allegany student.

Admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital for treatment of a wound in the right calf was Mary Mauck, 17, of 19 South Lee Street. Attaches report her in "good" condition, adding that surgery was needed to remove the pellet from her leg.

City Police said the rifle was being discarded after it had lain unused in an attic for several years. The woman who had placed it with a collection of trash informed police she was unaware that it was loaded. The .22 calibre weapon was rusted and without a stock, police said.

A young boy student, Michael Reinhart, 13, of 11 South Lee Street, kicked at the weapon while en route to Allegany. The gun went off at the impact of the kick, with the pellet entering the right leg of the Mauck girl, who was only a pace or so away.

Detective Lt. James E. Van and Detective Thomas See, who investigated, said the shooting was accidental.

The detectives confiscated the rifle and tested it to prove that it was fired in the manner reported.

Lt. Van said they put a shell into the champer, reseated the hammer and fired the shell by a light tap.

They said the old rifle had been placed in the trash collection only a few minutes before it was accidentally discharged.

City Issues Two Building Permits

Two permits for dwellings, with a total estimated value of $11,000, have been issued by the city building engineer.

Melvin H. Lipscomb will build a $5,000 dwelling on Potomac Street in Humbird Addition. It will have concrete block foundation, brick veneer walls and asphalt shingle roof.

Robert L. Ritchie will construct a dwelling at 1400 Holland Street in Dilfer Farm Addition. It will have concrete block foundation, frame and aluminum siding and cost was estimated at $6,000.

Two Truckers Fined For Overloads

Two truckers were fined yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court on overload charges preferred by John J. Devlin of the State Roads Commission weighing crew.

Fred D. Shook, 47, of 101 Pioneer Place was fined $124, and Harry Lewis, 26, of Eckhart, was fined $36 at hearings before Magistrate Allan Weatherholt.

Local Used Car Lot Operators Receive Fines

The operators of a local used car business were fined $25 on each of two charges at a hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court as a result of an investigation by Trooper Willis Foreman of the LaVale State Police barracks.

Louis and Harold Waingold entered a plea of guilty before Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti to 11 separate charges of failing to deliver certificates of titles to purchasers of vehicles from their used car lot. The charges were made only because of a delay in delivery of tities within a specified period contained in the state code.

The two men were represented by Attorney Clarence Lippel, who informed court that it was his opinion that there was only a technical violation of any state law.

Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney, in presenting the case stressed that the defendants cooperated with the investigation and that there was no "jumping" of titles involved. Mason said the law specifies that new titles must be delivered to owners within a period of ten days.

Lippel explained that it is common practice for automobile dealers in this locality to handle the paper work involved in the purchase of cars, the dealers assuming the paper work as a convenience to their customers.

In pronouncing sentence, Carpenti said there appeared to be two violations of the state code, but since the case was the first of its kind to come to the attention of court, he would suspend sentence of the remaining nine similar charges. The Waingolds were also ordered to pay court costs.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT.	Pass	3 NT.	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♦.

Today's hand presents some sound basic fundamentals for both defense and offense. The bidding is thoroughly routine and requires no comment.

West chose to open the five of diamonds, but it is the conviction of this department that with apparently hopeless hands of this type, efforts to develop the longest suit are usually futile, and, an attempt should be made to do something for partner in the one time that opener will find himself "at bat." On this theory the jack of spades would have been the preferred lead.

Declarer won the lead in dummy with the queen of diamonds and immediately led a low heart. East ducked and the jack held the trick. If the heart suit would provide three tricks, declarer would not have to concern himself with the club finesse. If each defender has three hearts, the fourth heart will automatically develop, but if they are 4-2, an effort should be made to bring down the ace with a small card. So declarer entered dummy with the king of diamonds and led another low heart. When the ace appeared the contract was assured.

Had declarer led from either the first or second heart from his own hand, dummy's queen would have been smothered and South would have had a rough road to travel. He then would have been left with only eight tricks and could now bring in the hand only by inspired card reading which would involve refusing the club finesse in favor of an end play on East. This could be accomplished only by ducking a spade and cashing out the tricks in the red suits before throwing East in with a spade.

Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney, in presenting the case stressed that the defendants cooperated with the investigation and that there was no "jumping" of titles involved. Mason said the law specifies that new titles must be delivered to owners within a period of ten days.

Lippel explained that it is common practice for automobile dealers in this locality to handle the paper work involved in the purchase of cars, the dealers assuming the paper work as a convenience to their customers.

In pronouncing sentence, Carpenti said there appeared to be two violations of the state code, but since the case was the first of its kind to come to the attention of court, he would suspend sentence of the remaining nine similar charges. The Waingolds were also ordered to pay court costs.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT.	Pass	3 NT.	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♦.

Today's hand presents some sound basic fundamentals for both defense and offense. The bidding is thoroughly routine and requires no comment.

West chose to open the five of diamonds, but it is the conviction of this department that with apparently hopeless hands of this type, efforts to develop the longest suit are usually futile, and, an attempt should be made to do something for partner in the one time that opener will find himself "at bat." On this theory the jack of spades would have been the preferred lead.

Declarer won the lead in dummy with the queen of diamonds and immediately led a low heart. East ducked and the jack held the trick. If the heart suit would provide three tricks, declarer would not have to concern himself with the club finesse. If each defender has three hearts, the fourth heart will automatically develop, but if they are 4-2, an effort should be made to bring down the ace with a small card. So declarer entered dummy with the king of diamonds and led another low heart. When the ace appeared the contract was assured.

Had declarer led from either the first or second heart from his own hand, dummy's queen would have been smothered and South would have had a rough road to travel. He then would have been left with only eight tricks and could now bring in the hand only by inspired card reading which would involve refusing the club finesse in favor of an end play on East. This could be accomplished only by ducking a spade and cashing out the tricks in the red suits before throwing East in with a spade.

Care And Feeding Of Customs Officers

By DAVID BRINKLEY
NBC News

At college dances the doorkeeper used to mark our hands with a rubber stamp that remained invisible until held under a small purple light he had there beside his wicker chair. And each time we came back in from a trip to the bottle in the glove compartment he'd hold our hands under the light, the small triangular marking lit up and glowed, and he'd let us back in. That was somehow supposed to keep two juniors from getting into the prom on one ticket. God knows how.

And I still wondered how early this Spring when we spent a month struggling a half ton of cameras through customs in six countries in the Middle East, Europe and Africa and found that the rubber stamp has the same mystique and enchantment for customs officers it used to have for the doorman at the junior prom.

We were making a film to put on NBC Television May 17th and we found it took a month, a lot of NBC's money, and rubber stamps in four shapes and three colors: round, square, rectangular and triangular in red, purple and black.

A tourist can go anywhere carrying anything if he packs it in ordinary luggage and if it does not leak, tick, smoke or explode. But when you get off an airplane with mounds of odd-shaped boxes and fiber cases, then you find you need the papers and the stamps. You can explain in whatever language you know or they know that the cases hold cameras, amplifiers, film, yellow filters and like that, but the customs people won't listen because they don't really care what's in the cases. All they care about are the papers —not the thing itself but the papers that go with it. And it doesn't even matter much what the papers say so long as they are duly ornamented and illuminated with rubber stampings of suitable shape and color. Nor, apparently, does anyone care what the stampings say, because the man who applied them always managed to strike the paper with an oblique, glancing blow that smeared the lettering into total illegibility.

There must be some kind of standard reference work, or handbook, in maybe 20 languages that is lovingly memorized by customs officers everywhere because the ritual is identically stylized in all airports from Cairo to Beirut to Algiers to Nice.

The camera cases are rolled in from the airplane's belly and piled on a low counter in a vast, lumpy array. The customs man looks at them uncuriously and asks politely, "Avez vous le papier?" We hand him a sheaf of papers run out by the NBC mimeograph showing what is in each box and case. He takes the papers out back and then makes each prescribed move, posture and stance with care and precision. There is a consultation and then a phone call to somebody who is out to lunch. This is followed by periods of silence and inaction. A man in a blue serge suit comes by and says something obscure to a man in uniform. They both turn to a third man in coveralls and say something to him. He lights a cigarette and does not answer. They open a thick book and leaf through it but never actually read anything. The man in uniform keeps looking at his watch and at the girls behind the airline counter. Other planes arrive. People get their luggage in 30 seconds and leave. Still no one has even looked at our baggage. Only at the papers. Only the papers matter, because the rubber stamps are on them, not on the luggage.

The NBC man in Vienna—once he had learned this small fact—was able to apply it in the most wonderful ways. Wherever he wanted to go in Central Europe and for whatever purpose, he simply typed something on a company letterhead and then applied at the bottom a rubber stamp he bought from a local printer. It said: APPROVED—NBC NEWS. Then he signed his own name across the stamp and got in everywhere while others without these credentials were turned away.

Eventually, after maybe an hour, the customs people come back to the counter. They have examined and admired the neat shapes and soft colors of the rubber stamps previously applied in other countries and added more of their own. They return our papers and without once touching the baggage itself they wave us on our way with handshakes and thanks.

Hours later when we've unpacked and set up the camera and aimed it at a pyramid or girls in bikinis or Grace Kelly's palace, here comes a gendarme asking in the friendliest fashion, "Monsieur, avez vous le papier?"

Church To Lay Cornerstone Sunday

Church of God, Fifth and Seymour Streets, will have a cornerstone laying service Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

Rev. Ray H. Hughes, Baltimore, state overseer of the Churches of God, will speak.

The local congregation has been meeting in the basement of the structure since 1953. The basement built that year was intended to be for the Sunday School Department when the main edifice was completed.

Plans for completion of the church were made soon after the present pastor, Rev. Charles Coley, came here last year. Rev. Coley had served three and a half years at Boynton, Pa., where he also saw a new church and parsonage constructed and previous attendance records broken.

Church To Hold Service Today

Ascension Day will be celebrated at St. John's Lutheran Church, corner of Fourth and Arch streets, today at 7:30 p. m.

Rev. Russell E. Fink, pastor, will speak on "Christ, the Lord of All." The Sanctuary Choir will participate and the "Litany" form of prayer will be used.

Ascension Day is the anniversary of the ascension of Jesus Christ into Heaven. It occurs 40 days after Easter and from ancient times has been considered a major festival of the church year, ranking in importance with Christmas, Good Friday and Easter.

Engineer Ends Railroad Career

After 48 years and four months service, R. B. Coleman, of Halethorpe, made his final run as an engineer for the B&O Railroad recently as the Speedliner left here for Baltimore.

Coleman was congratulated by R. J. Cannon, superintendent of the Cumberland Division; B. F. Hotchkiss, road foreman of engines, as he prepared to make his final run.

During his long career, 40 years of which he was an engineer, Coleman never had a major derailment or accident. For seven years he was engineer on the Blue Line passenger trains which ran between Washington and New York. He was qualified for runs into Cumberland and Keyser since 1935.

In his retirement he intends to play some golf and attend various contests in which the Baltimore Orioles and Colts are taking part. He is an avid fan of both the baseball team and football aggregation which represent Baltimore.

The Lake of the Cherokees in northeastern Oklahoma is set in an area which boasts more varieties of wild flowers than any other similar section of the United States.

At the same time Elizabeth Weimer, pre-education major from Maysville, was chosen vice-president.

An informal initiation ceremony, directed by James T. Handlan, preceded the formal ritual. It was conducted by the incumbent president, assisted by David G. Nuzum, Thomas Leatherman and Sue Karickoff. The part taken by Dr. Nancy M. Miller, faculty sponsor of Sigma Phi Omega, had been taped in advance at Potomac Valley Hospital, where she is recovering from a broken hip.

Following the initiation, refreshments were served by actives Regina Stento, Sue Karickhoff and Darley Broome.

Spell It—Xerography

As automation makes life easier for the average individual, it keeps adding new terms to the lexicon, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization indicates. The latest is xerography, meaning literally "dry writing," from the Greek root xeros (dry).

The process, developed by University Microfilms Inc. of Ann Arbor, Michigan, makes possible the reproduction of out-of-print books, in bound form, at only moderate cost. The volume is first reproduced in its entirety, on microfilm. These microfilm negatives of the pages are then run through a special machine which makes photoprints in book-size enlargements, on a continuous roll of paper. The roll is automatically folded accordion-style at the edge of each page, inside folds being simultaneously glued together. Outside folds form the edges of the printed pages. Any thickness of paper may be used for the process, hailed as a boon to scholars.

Road Project Provides Shortcut For Firemen

Quick thinking on the part of three workers for the Allegany County Roads Department Tuesday afternoon aided the North Branch Volunteer Fire Company.

A grass fire on Williams Street, just outside the city limits, resulted in a call to the North Branch unit. The county road employes were working on the opening of Messick Road from Oldtown Road to Williams Road and knew of the fire.

When the North Branch fire truck neared the intersection of Messick and Oldtown roads the men waved them through to the Messick Road. The short section which had been graded made it possible for the fire truck to reach the blaze without going round about through the Mapleside section of Cumberland. They saved about two miles by use of the Messick Road route.

The opening of the roadway was started only recently and one of the arguments which had been used by proponents of the road was the improvement in fire protection service of the North Branch firemen to residents along Williams Road.

Workers going to and from the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant will also have a much shorter route. Property along the road may also be developed for homesites, according to observers.

Harry Skelly, supervisor of the County Roads Department, identified the three workers who directed the fire truck over the shorter route as Albert Rice, Wilbert Williams and Albert Shaffer.

The East Side Fire Company was also called when the fire broke out, but the site was outside the city line and the men stood by until the North Branch unit arrived.

About three acres of grassland was scorched and several homes were endangered by the flames.

Engineer Ends Railroad Career

After 48 years and four months service, R. B. Coleman, of Halethorpe, made his final run as an engineer for the B&O Railroad recently as the Speedliner left here for Baltimore.

Coleman was congratulated by R. J. Cannon, superintendent of the Cumberland Division; B. F. Hotchkiss, road foreman of engines, as he prepared to make his final run.

During his long career, 40 years of which he was an engineer, Coleman never had a major derailment or accident. For seven years he was engineer on the Blue Line passenger trains which ran between Washington and New York. He was qualified for runs into Cumberland and Keyser since 1935.

In his retirement he intends to play some golf and attend various contests in which the Baltimore Orioles and Colts are taking part. He is an avid fan of both the baseball team and football aggregation which represent Baltimore.

The Lake of the Cherokees in northeastern Oklahoma is set in an area which boasts more varieties of wild flowers than any other similar section of the United States.

Russian Trade Without Credit

Since World War II Russia's trade with the West has been conducted on a "cash on the barrelhead" basis. The Russians have proved selective buyers, careful to ensure that deliveries comply with specifications or are up to sample, insistent on promptitude.

When Khrushchev or some other member of the Soviet hierarchy describes in glowing terms the vast amount of business Russia could give the West, were conditions favorable, they are probably not dealing in propaganda moonshine. The seven-year plan could be adjusted to accommodate these deliveries from the West except for a difficulty in terms of payment. The bolsheviki want credit.

There are political implications in this that rise above the act of selling things on a buy-now-pay-later arrangement. Most of Russia's demands are for capital goods—complete plants, machinery, etc., to speed the seven-year plan to completion and provide the people with more consumer goods and a higher standard of living. The West would therefore be helping to build Communism on credit terms.

Even if the West could swallow its objections to this for the sake of getting some orders—and forget that the plants and machinery it supplies might, in the years to come, be used in a trade war against it—the undeveloped countries, desperately in need of capital goods on credit terms, might complain at generosity shown the Communist camp.

When Prime Minister MacMillan was in Moscow arrangements were made for a British trade delegation to visit Russia. It will no doubt be attended by the customary flourishes of trumpets and high hopes of full order books. Without credit terms being offered, the hopes are unlikely to be fulfilled.

One of the problems of a free society is to be both free and efficient. It is not as easy to do as the phrase is to be spoken. In such a society, men are often chosen for office for reasons other than competence and efficiency. Appearance, geniality, affability, good-fellowship, a wise marriage, membership in numerous organizations, and other similar reasons may elevate a man to elective positions; contributions to campaign funds, friendships with elected officers and sheer top-notch ability may influence appointment to office.

Career men are not necessarily able men nor are they necessarily incompetent. However, the best minds in the United States have for a century or more, say since the Civil War, gone into business, industry and the law. These extraordinarily constructive persons have built the structure of production and distribution which knows no superior on Earth. They retire generally at an early age, say 65, and have many years of usefulness ahead of them.

Occasionally, the Government of the United States is able to co-opt or capture one of these extraordinarily competent men for government service. During war-time, it is easy because patriotism and even social pressure stimulate a desire to serve the country. In peace-time, it is more difficult. Men of great ability, of large possessions, of responsibility in private ventures are often unwilling to submit to the legal limitations placed upon government functionaries, some of which make for atrocious inefficiencies, and subject competence to the tyranny of the elected officials.

For instance, why should anyone have to submit to the mendacious tongue-lashing of such a one as Wayne Morse? If that is what holding a government job means, it is more comfortable to stay at home and let the government be represented by some second-rater who finds a pension a gratifying reward for a life of public service indolently performed.

Or why should a man of Admiral Lewis L. Strauss's attainments, a man who has served his country ably and faithfully, have to listen to Left-Wingers, Communists, and similar persons attack him vindictively because he served his country while they were scheming against it? Top-notch men avoid public office rather than to submit to the tyranny of Senators, seeking publicity, who can say anything they choose and against whose lies there is no recourse in the law.

When Senator Joe McCarthy was fighting Communists, his opponents said that they did not object to McCarthy's objectives but they disliked his methods. McCarthy never subjected anybody to the gruelling misery that is Wayne Morse's stock in trade. A Senate investigating committee ought to bring before it Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce's physician and question him under oath to discover word for word what Senator Morse asked him over the telephone about his patient. In the old days, a husband would horse-whip a fellow for that sort of thing, and it was a much more comfortable world to live in because gentlemen drew the line somewhere. And those who did not were regarded as cads.

In the matter of Admiral Strauss, the greatest accusation that has thus far been made against him is that he has been too rigid about security and that he favored making the hydrogen bomb when some so-called scientists opposed it. In other words, he served the United States and for that he is to be insulted and defamed and those who were subversives, associates of foreign agents and fellow-travelling dupes are to be given free rein to drive competent, top-notch men out of public life.

How long can this country afford inefficient, incompetent men to stifle it by trade union methods among the bureaucrats? These little people live on envy and ridicule. They never can understand why men who cannot work a slide rule should be their superiors. It does not occur to them that the creative, constructive, intuitive intellect does not require the bastions of bureaucratic togetherness to help him through life. Nor do the top-notchers observe the bureaucratic mannerliness of slow motion and dissipation of effort to give everyone a chance. The top-notch man does the job assigned to him, efficiently, accurately and swiftly. And if that hurts the pride and feelings of the feather-bedders, it is just too bad, but the unjustified attacks on top-notch men serve no great purpose.

A Backstage Drama In Washington Over Humanity's Right To Survive

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Drama lurks in peculiar places in Washington. The sight-seeing tourist doesn't notice it, nor even the average resident, but it's there—sombre, sometimes incoherent, gripping drama. It pertains to the most sacred of all problems — man's right to live.

Scene No. 1 of the drama is taking place just across the Potomac whose usually slow-moving bosom now swells with spring and whose banks are lined with lacelike willow trees. The Potomac has been majestically unconcerned about man's right to live since before the days when George Washington built his home beside it. But on its west bank, in a pile of concrete called the Pentagon, Air Force scientists have been very much concerned with man's wil' to live, and have finally decided that man must be told the truth about the danger of accidental atomic explosions.

Hitherto the American military have discounted the danger of accidental explosions. When the Danes refused to permit our atomic sub to enter the harbor of Copenhagen, the danger was discounted.

Now a complete reversal has been made. An atomic sub, it's admitted, can blow up and spread radioactive poison. So can an atomic bomb, rocket, or missile.

Easy To Misfire

Greatest danger comes from smaller warheads, such as those carried on short-range missiles, the Corporal and the Honest John. Unfortunately, these are not only easiest to misfire, but are handled by the least skilled.

Air Force strategists now admit this danger, furthermore believe the time has come to warn the American people. Reason for the reversal is fear that ar accidental explosion might panic the nation into war. Should a bomb explode accidentally, the public could be panicked into believing it came from Russia, and nuclear war could engulf the world in a matter of minutes.

Or some berserk soldier or scientist could detonate a bomb which could bring on war. Or some Soviet scientist with a grudge against the Kremlin could launch a missile against the Kremlin which might be blamed on the United States.

These are the dramatic, awesome problems faced by Pentagon strategists in considering man's will to survive.

Scene 2 in the drama takes place in the high-ceilinged, oak-paneled hearing room of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. Two scientists, also concerned about man's right to survive, are testifying against the confirmation of Adm. Lewis Strauss to be Secretary of Commerce.

They helped to make these terrible weapons of mass death, and are fearful that their handiwork will eventually destroy mankind.

Sen. John Pastore, Rhode Island Democrat, sits in the chairman's seat and badgers them. He will hardly let them finish a sentence before he fires a question—or usually a rebuttal statement in Admiral Strauss's defense. The man he's defending, former head of one of the great investment houses of Wall Street, smiles. He is cocky and confident, as the son of an Italian immigrant, now a Senator, brusquely comes to his defense.

What Man Created

One of the scientists, Dr. David Inglis of the government's Argonne Laboratory, fumbles for words. He tries to explain his fears of hydrogen warfare. We should have waited to make sure Russia was really going to build the H-bomb before going ahead with this terrible weapon. Obviously Dr. Inglis is a man at home with scientific formulas, but completely at sea with words—especially when interrupted by Senators.

"Trying to destroy a country by old-fashioned atomic bombs," he finally blurts out, "is much less dangerous than the trigger-happiness of the hydroge age."

The Senators pin him down as to whether he would let Russia get ahead of the United States. He writhes and fumbles for an answer. Of course not, he says, but, on the other hand—and he tries to explain the awful results of the war that could come from the weapon he's helped produce.

Was Elder Statesman Right?

He doesn't seem to remember, and the Senators don't want to remember—if they ever knew—that such a distinguished elder statesman as Henry L. Stimson, a Republican serving in four Cabinets, proposed that we give the atomic bomb to Russia — give it, not trade. And thi was one month after Hiroshima.

Stimson had been Secretary of War in the Taft Cabinet, Secretary of State in the Hoover Cabinet, and then came back to serve under Roosevelt and Truman as Secretary of War. He bowed out in October 1945. Before he bowed ou., he proposed in Cabinet meeting that since Russia was sure to develop her own atomic bomb, we should give it to her as an ally and as a gesture which would help to head off a cutthroat arms race.

Otherwise, the man who had served under four Presidents warned rivalry with Russia might well lead to a third world war. Stimson was overruled 7 to 3 by the Truman Cabinet. And the drama of coping with man's right to survive in the race which has followed, now continues, in the Pentagon, in Senate hearing rooms, and elsewhere in Washington—as will be reported in future columns.

How To Cope With Future Limited Wars?

By David Lawrence

PARIS, May 6 — The military men stationed here do a lot of talking among themselves about the next war. But, oddly enough, they don't always mean the same war.

First, of course, there is ever present the thought of a nuclear war, which presumably would be decided in a brief period and would not involve ground forces to any great extent.

Then, second, there's the concept of a "limited war" which might or might not lead to a general war but which, if bungled through lack of adequate preparation, could plunge the world into a nuclear holocaust, whereas proper measures taken in advance could act as a "deterrent power."

But there's a third contingency about which relatively little has been said in print. It involves such action as was taken by the United States last year when Marines attached to the Sixth Fleet and some Army units were landed in Lebanon. This did not involve the forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, but was solely an American action.

Supposing, therefore, the argument goes, the United States for reasons of its own should wish to provide a military demonstration either in the Middle East or in Southeast Asia where the Soviets, through their infiltration technique, had virtually taken over a small country. The Russians theoretically would not themselves be a belligerent but, for all practical purposes, would be testing the retaliatory power of some Western country like the United States. With what military forces would the United States counter such a move?

This question is widely discussed nowadays among the Marines stationed in Europe, who look back to a long history in which emergency use has been made of their Corps. The problem is not new, and the usual answer heard is that this is what the Strategic Army Command, known as "STRAC," is intended to handle.

... there are some practical difficulties. The various divisions constituting "STRAC" are stationed in different parts of the United States. They would have to be flown to a trouble area. This means not merely adequate transportation for the troops but a continuous supply line thereafter. The point is made that no such provision for transportation by air has yet been made.

Even granting that there are enough cargo planes to maintain the supply line, the question arises as to how two objections of a so-called political character would be overcome. One is that flights over various countries require permission, and this can involve protracted discussion at a critical time and perhaps a refusal of such permission.

Another difficulty is that NATO has been governed by the principle that forces or supplies must not be withdrawn by its members for their own national purposes. The reaction to the recent withdrawal by France of a part of her Mediterranean fleet which had been integrated into the NATO sea forces is an example of the kind of protests that could arise. Certainly NATO would not look with favor on such a project, and the only certain way that the United States, either alone or in association with another ally, could act would be to have forces available that are independent of NATO, as was the case in the Lebanon and Jordan episodes in the summer of 1958.

All this means that the Communists could exploit the military situation in the Middle East, and there would be no way for the United States and another ally to handle this problem expeditiously. Yet an emergency of this kind in a local area could bring on the first stages of a "limited war" and find the Western Allies militarily unprepared to meet it.

It is being suggested that a "mobile force" — consisting of U.S. Army and Marine forces fully equipped for such tasks and supplied at first by air and later by sea — should be set up for the specific purpose of dealing with Communist infiltration in areas where the constituted government invites help from Western governments, as was the case in Lebanon. The whole idea is not merely to confront the Communists with a potential deterrent by the NATO "shield" and other armament in Western Europe but to take into account protective measures against the wider range of Communist military activity in North Africa, the Middle East and Southeast Asia in what is euphemistically termed the "cold war."

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter's first assignment in his new Cabinet post, to arrange and carry out the U. S. role in East-West foreign ministers' talks, is one of the most vital roles any State secretary has been called on to perform since World War II.

The question of his success is in the forefront of diplomatic thinking around the world, as is the Communist reaction to him as a negotiator. Herter's role is all the tougher because of the presence of John Foster Dulles as President Eisenhower's personal advisor on foreign policy. Many in Washington and elsewhere feel that Herter's policy-making role may be undermined by Dulles' figuratively looking over his shoulder.

To remove this impression, Dulles took a highly unusual step the other day, just prior to Herter's departure for preliminary talks with other Western power foreign ministers in Paris.

In the presence of other high government officials, Dulles cautioned Herter not to tolerate any "interlopers" who may try to come between the President and himself in foreign policy-making. "I want to emphasize," Dulles said, "now that I have taken this new position as a foreign policy consultant, that I never want to do anything which might put me in the position of being an interloper between you and the President."

(Central Press)

The Summit Road

By Joseph Alsop

LONDON

Secretary of State Christian Herter returned to Washington still talking about the need for the Soviets to prove their "readiness to negotiate" before any meeting at the summit. Yet the Western Foreign Ministers at Paris actually talked about the best place and time to meet at the summit. They inclined towards San Francisco in late July.

Nothing could better illustrate the essentially ritual character of the forthcoming Geneva conference. This rally on the Foreign Ministers' level is being held primarily for the sake of appearances. It is intended to cover the fact that the American policy makers have abandoned their former opposition to the larger rally at the summit.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has been the chief Western advocate of the journey to the summit, and he played a leading role in forcing the American policymakers to change their minds about this journey. In this and other ways, Macmillan has had much to do with shaping the initial Western response to the challenge at Berlin. In short, the loud claims of the British press, tha Macmillan has seized h leadership of the West, have more truth than the State Department and White House like to admit.

In the testing times that lie ahead, moreover, Macmillan clearly intends to go on asserting his own viewpoint with great energy and fervor. The "package" that Secretary Herter and his colleagues agreed in Paris to take to Geneva has the same ritual character as the Geneva meeting itself. In other owrds everyone agreed about what they would say to the Soviets at the outset—which was easy. But no agreement was reached on the difficult point — how everyone would act when the going got rough. The principal factor behind this lack of agreement was Macmillan's determination to keep his hands free.

In these circumstances, it is important to know just how the viewpoint of Harold Macmillan differs from the viewpoint of the other Western allies. The difference is marked. It has even caused Macmillan to be called an appeaser by certain fairly highly placed persons in Paris, Bonn, and even Washington—which has angered the Prime Minister very deeply indeed.

Perhaps the best clue to the Macmillan viewpoint is the Prime Minister's talk about "evacuating twenty million women and children from the British Isles," which so surprised the Senators in Washington. This was not idle talk. Before his Washington journey, Macmillan took the same lurid line about what he would have to do if the going got rough at Berlin, both with General de Gaulle in Paris and with Chancellor Adenauer in Bonn.

There are two reasons why Macmillan strikes this note that no other Western leader strikes. In the first place, he and the other British policymakers take the Soviet threat to Berlin very much more seriously than their American, French, or German opposite numbers. They think that Nikita Khrushchev will take much graver risks than the others think. They do not believe that the British crisis will conveniently subside "if we all just stand firm."

Yet there is another, deeper reason, too, for the difference in viewpoint between Macmillan and his allies. Here in Britain, in brief, both the policymakers and the people are very much more aware of the new weapons of total destruction than people or policymakers elsewhere.

In America, the thought of H-bombs still tends to generate a false confidence, as though America's former atomic monopoly still persisted. In France and Germany, no one thinks about such subjects. Macmillan, on contrast, has often on his lips the small number of bombs needed to destroy the British Isles. If the Eisenhower administration had made the needed efforts to maintain a Western nuclear lead, the situation here in Britain would be very different. But those efforts were not made. If the resulting change in the world balance of power has affected British opinion, no one shoul' be surprised. Furthermore, Macmillan's accusers had better wait to judge whether the Prime Minister is an appeaser, or whether President Eisenhower is an appeaser, until the going gets really rough. Before then, the other Western leaders might well ask themselves whether Macmillan may not after all be right in his judgment of the risks at Berlin.

A New And More Potent Remedy For Gout

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Flexin is the latest remedy for gout. This drug has been used as a muscle relaxant for several years but recently it was found that it stimulated the kidneys to eliminate the chemicals responsible for gout and gouty arthritis. It acts the same as a competitive product, pro-benecid, but is said to be four to six times more potent in this respect.

Acute attacks of gout are best treated with colchicine, aspirin, butazoiidin, or one of the hormones such as cortisone. Flexin and probenecid are more useful in keeping the disease under control and in preventing flare-ups. In addition, the victim is allowed a more liberal diet.

Gout resembles ordinary arthritis; unless the blood is tested and X-rays are taken, the condition is likely to be missed. Five per cent of all cases of joint disease seen at the Mayo clinic have gout. (Dr. Van Dellen has a leaflet on gout that he will send if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

There are many hints that might help a person with joint pain to suspect gout and have it treated before extensive damage occurs.

The disorder is characterized by intervals of complete well being. The initial bouts last approximately a week and the pain-free intervals may persist for months or years. But in time the sieges come more frequently, last longer, and are more severe.

The intervals of freedom from discomfort become shorter, and in time the victim is in persistent pain. Gout often begins in a big toe but may involve other joints. The attack usually occurs several hours after midnight and awakens the person from a sound sleep. The affected joint is tender to the touch, excruciatingly painful, and bluish in color.

The attacks may follow injury, too much walking, exposure to cold, or overindulgence in alcohol. Sometimes they develop after an operation or a hypodermic injection of liver extract. Proper diagnosis is all important because the disturbance responds dramatically to treatment, in contrast to other forms of rheumatism.

MOTHER'S TEMPER

A.B.F. writes: My 18-month-old niece does not eat very well. Would the mother's uncontrolable temper have anything to do with it? She has no patience with the little one.

REPLY

Yes. Parents should make meal time a happy time. The more pleasant and leisurely the environment, the better for all concerned.

GERMS ON CLOTHING

Mrs. J. writes: Can germs spewed by coughing and sneezing be spread through clothing to another person?

REPLY

No. On the other hand, microorganisms that remain alive on a person's clothing may contaminate his hands and be transmitted to the nose or mouth.

TRAINING AND TALKING

REPLY

Most youngsters are toilet trained between the ages of 2 and 3. By this time, most children are talking. It is conceivable that the opposite occurs in some instances. In addition, if the child does not talk before age 3, a thorough examination is advisable with particular reference to hearing.

MEDICINES FOR DIABETIC

G.L. writes: Can a diabetic (on insulin) take any other medication, such as a tranquilizer?

REPLY

Yes. The majority of diabetics can take almost any type of medication, even though they are using insulin hypodermically.

EXAM FOR APPENDICITIS

H. G. writes: Is there any way for a person to tell whether he has appendicitis, other than to wait for a severe attack?

REPLY

Fluoroscopic examination of the colon may help along this line because it allows the physician to localize the exact site of pain. Furthermore, if the appendix fills with barium, there is a good possibility that it is normal. However, most persons who believe they are suffering from mild attacks of appendicitis have a spastic bowel.

PREGNANCY

Mrs. J. M. writes: Will the following cause a miscarriage if done through the second to fourth month of pregnancy: Shoveling snow, sledding, running up and downstairs?

REPLY

There is only one chance in 100 that these activities will lead to miscarriage at this stage of pregnancy.

TOMORROW: Enzymes in diagnosis and treatment.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

"Let's offer her twice what she's getting here to be a model in our show room," proposed one. "I'm afraid," demurred the other. "She looks like an innocent little thing and one of those fresh buyers might take advantage of her. I think it's up to us first to teach her what's right and wrong."

Without looknig up, Oscar replied, "Tastes like it, too."

But on its west bank, in a pile of concrete called the Pentagon, Air Force scientists have been very much concerned with man's wil' to live, and have finally decided that man must be told the truth about the danger of accidental atomic explosions.

Hitherto the American military have discounted the danger of accidental explosions. When the Danes refused to permit our atomic sub to enter the harbor of Copenhagen, the danger was discounted.

Now a complete reversal has been made. An atomic sub, it's admitted, can blow up and spread radioactive poison. So can an atomic bomb, rocket, or missile.

Easy To Misfire

Greatest danger comes from smaller warheads, such as those carried on short-range missiles, the Corporal and the Honest John. Unfortunately, these are not only easiest to misfire, but are handled by the least skilled.

Air Force strategists now admit this danger, furthermore believe the time has come to warn the American people. Reason for the reversal is fear that ar accidental explosion might panic the nation into war. Should a bomb explode accidentally, the public could be panicked into believing it came from Russia, and nuclear war could engulf the world in a matter of minutes.

Or some berserk soldier or scientist could detonate a bomb which could bring on war. Or some Soviet scientist with a grudge against the Kremlin could launch a missile against the Kremlin which might be blamed on the United States.

These are the dramatic, awesome problems faced by Pentagon strategists in considering man's will to survive.

Scene 2 in the drama takes place in the high-ceilinged, oak-paneled hearing room of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. Two scientists, also concerned about man's right to survive, are testifying against the confirmation of Adm. Lewis Strauss to be Secretary of Commerce.

They helped to make these terrible weapons of mass death, and are fearful that their handiwork will eventually destroy mankind.

Sen. John Pastore, Rhode Island Democrat, sits in the chairman's seat and badgers them. He will hardly let them finish a sentence before he fires a question—or usually a rebuttal statement in Admiral Strauss's defense. The man he's defending, former head of one of the great investment houses of Wall Street, smiles. He is cocky and confident, as the son of an Italian immigrant, now a Senator, brusquely comes to his defense.

What Man Created

One of the scientists, Dr. David Inglis of the government's Argonne Laboratory, fumbles for words. He tries to explain his fears of hydrogen warfare. We should have waited to make sure Russia was really going to build the H-bomb before going ahead with this terrible weapon. Obviously Dr. Inglis is a man at home with scientific formulas, but completely at sea with words—especially when interrupted by Senators.

"Trying to destroy a country by old-fashioned atomic bombs," he finally blurts out, "is much less dangerous than the trigger-happiness of the hydrogen age."

The Senators pin him down as to whether he would let Russia get ahead of the United States. He writhes and tumbles for an answer. Of course not, he says, but, on the other hand—and he tries to explain the awful results of the war that could come from the weapon he's helped produce.

Was Elder Statesman Right?

He doesn't seem to remember, and the Senators don't want to remember—if they ever knew—that such a distinguished elder statesman as Henry L. Stimson, a Republican serving in four Cabinets, proposed that we give the atomic bomb to Russia — give it, not trade. And thi was one month after Hiroshima.

Stimson had been Secretary of War in the Taft Cabinet, Secretary of State in the Hoover Cabinet, and then came back to serve under Roosevelt and Truman as Secretary of War. He bowed out in October 1945. Before he bowed ou., he proposed in Cabinet meeting that since Russia was sure to develop her own atomic bomb, we should give it to her as an ally and as a gesture which would help to head off a cutthroat arms race.

Otherwise, the man who had served under four Presidents warned rivalry with Russia might well lead to a third world war. Stimson was overruled 7 to 3 by the Truman Cabinet. And the drama of coping with man's right to survive in the race which has followed, now continues, in the Pentagon, in Senate hearing rooms, and elsewhere in Washington—as will be reported in future columns.

How To Cope With Future Limited Wars?

By David Lawrence

PARIS, May 6 — The military men stationed here do a lot of talking among themselves about the next war. But, oddly enough, they don't always mean the same war.

First, of course, there is ever present the thought of a nuclear war, which presumably would be decided in a brief period and would not involve ground forces to any great extent.

Then, second, there's the concept of a "limited war" which might or might not lead to a general war but which, if bungled through lack of adequate preparation, could plunge the world into a nuclear holocaust, whereas proper measures taken in advance could act as a "deterrent power."

But there's a third contingency about which relatively little has been said in print. It involves such action as was taken by the United States last year when Marines attached to the Sixth Fleet and some Army units were landed in Lebanon. This did not involve the forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, but was solely an American action.

Supposing, therefore, the argument goes, the United States for reasons of its own should wish to provide a military demonstration either in the Middle East or in Southeast Asia where the Soviets, through their infiltration technique, had virtually taken over a small country. The Russians theoretically would not themselves be a belligerent but, for all practical purposes, would be testing the retaliatory power of some Western country like the United States. With what military forces would the United States counter such a move?

This question is widely discussed nowadays among the Marines stationed in Europe, who look back to a long history in which emergency use has been made of their Corps. The problem is not new, and the usual answer heard is that this is what the Strategic Army Command, known as "STRAC," is intended to handle.

... there are some practical difficulties. The various divisions constituting "STRAC" are stationed in different parts of the United States. They would have to be flown to a trouble area. This means not merely adequate transportation for the troops but a continuous supply line thereafter. The point is made that no such provision for transportation by air has yet been made.

Even granting that there are enough cargo planes to maintain the supply line, the question arises as to how two objections of a so-called political character would be overcome. One is that flights over various countries require permission, and this can involve protracted discussion at a critical time and perhaps a refusal of such permission.

Another difficulty is that NATO has been governed by the principle that forces or supplies must not be withdrawn by its members for their own national purposes. The reaction to the recent withdrawal by France of a part of her Mediterranean fleet which had been integrated into the NATO sea forces is an example of the kind of protests that could arise. Certainly NATO would not look with favor on such a project, and the only certain way that the United States, either alone or in association with another ally, could act would be to have forces available that are independent of NATO, as was the case in the Lebanon and Jordan episodes in the summer of 1958.

All this means that the Communists could exploit the military situation in the Middle East, and there would be no way for the United States and another ally to handle this problem expeditiously. Yet an emergency of this kind in a local area could bring on the first stages of a "limited war" and find the Western Allies militarily unprepared to meet it.

It is being suggested that a "mobile force" — consisting of U.S. Army and Marine forces fully equipped for such tasks and supplied at first by air and later by sea — should be set up for the specific purpose of dealing with Communist infiltration in areas where the constituted government invites help from Western governments, as was the case in Lebanon. The whole idea is not merely to confront the Communists with a potential deterrent by the NATO "shield" and other armament in Western Europe but to take into account protective measures against the wider range of Communist military activity in North Africa, the Middle East and Southeast Asia in what is euphemistically termed the "cold war."

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter's first assignment in his new Cabinet post, to arrange and carry out the U. S. role in East-West foreign ministers' talks, is one of the most vital roles any State secretary has been called on to perform since World War II.

The question of his success is in the forefront of diplomatic thinking around the world, as is the Communist reaction to him as a negotiator. Herter's role is all the tougher because of the presence of John Foster Dulles as President Eisenhower's personal advisor on foreign policy. Many in Washington and elsewhere feel that Herter's policy-making role may be undermined by Dulles' figuratively looking over his shoulder.

To remove this impression, Dulles took a highly unusual step the other day, just prior to Herter's departure for preliminary talks with other Western power foreign ministers in Paris.

In the presence of other high government officials, Dulles cautioned Herter not to tolerate any "interlopers" who may try to come between the President and himself in foreign policy-making. "I want to emphasize," Dulles said, "now that I have taken this new position as a foreign policy consultant, that I never want to do anything which might put me in the position of being an interloper between you and the President."

The Summit Road

By Joseph Alsop

LONDON

Secretary of State Christian Herter returned to Washington still talking about the need for the Soviets to prove their "readiness to negotiate" before any meeting at the summit. Yet the Western Foreign Ministers at Paris actually talked about the best place and time to meet at the summit. They inclined towards San Francisco in late July.

Nothing could better illustrate the essentially ritual character of the forthcoming Geneva conference. This rally on the Foreign Ministers' level is being held primarily for the sake of appearances. It is intended to cover the fact that the American policy makers have abandoned their former opposition to the larger rally at the summit.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has been the chief Western advocate of the journey to the summit, and he played a leading role in forcing the American policymakers to change their minds about this journey. In this and other ways, Macmillan has had much to do with shaping the initial Western response to the challenge at Berlin. In short, the loud claims of the British press, tha Macmillan has seized h leadership of the West, have more truth than the State Department and White House like to admit.

In the testing times that lie ahead, moreover, Macmillan clearly intends to go on asserting his own viewpoint with great energy and fervor. The "package" that Secretary Herter and his colleagues agreed in Paris to take to Geneva has the same ritual character as the Geneva meeting itself. In other owrds everyone agreed about what they would say to the Soviets at the outset—which was easy. But no agreement was reached on the difficult point — how everyone would act when the going got rough. The principal factor behind this lack of agreement was Macmillan's determination to keep his hands free.

In these circumstances, it is important to know just how the viewpoint of Harold Macmillan differs from the viewpoint of the other Western allies. The difference is marked. It has even caused Macmillan to be called an appeaser by certain fairly highly placed persons in Paris, Bonn, and even Washington—which has angered the Prime Minister very deeply indeed.

Perhaps the best clue to the Macmillan viewpoint is the Prime Minister's talk about "evacuating twenty million women and children from the British Isles," which so surprised the Senators in Washington. This was not idle talk. Before his Washington journey, Macmillan took the same lurid line about what he would have to do if the going got rough at Berlin, both with General de Gaulle in Paris and with Chancellor Adenauer in Bonn.

There are two reasons why Macmillan strikes this note that no other Western leader strikes. In the first place, he and the other British policymakers take the Soviet threat to Berlin very much more seriously than their American, French, or German opposite numbers. They think that Nikita Khrushchev will take much graver risks than the others think. They do not believe that the British crisis will conveniently subside "if we all just stand firm."

Yet there is another, deeper reason, too, for the difference in viewpoint between Macmillan and his allies. Here in Britain, in brief, both the policymakers and the people are very much more aware of the new weapons of total destruction than people or policymakers elsewhere.

In America, the thought of H-bombs still tends to generate a false confidence, as though America's former atomic monopoly still persisted. In France and Germany, no one thinks about such subjects. Macmillan, on contrast, has often on his lips the small number of bombs needed to destroy the British Isles. If the Eisenhower administration had made the needed efforts to maintain a Western nuclear lead, the situation here in Britain would be very different. But those efforts were not made. If the resulting change in the world balance of power has affected British opinion, no one shoul' be surprised. Furthermore, Macmillan's accusers had better wait to judge whether the Prime Minister is an appeaser, or whether President Eisenhower is an appeaser, until the going gets really rough. Before then, the other Western leaders might well ask themselves whether Macmillan may not after all be right in his judgment of the risks at Berlin.

A New And More Potent Remedy For Gout

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Flexin is the latest remedy for gout. This drug has been used as a muscle relaxant for several years but recently it was found that it stimulated the kidneys to eliminate the chemicals responsible for gout and gouty arthritis. It acts the same as a competitive product, pro-benecid, but is said to be four to six times more potent in this respect.

Acute attacks of gout are best treated with colchicine, aspirin, butazolidin, or one of the hormones such as cortisone. Flexin and probenecid are more useful in keeping the disease under control and in preventing flare-ups. In addition, the victim is allowed a more liberal diet.

Gout resembles ordinary arthritis; unless the blood is tested and X-rays are taken, the condition is likely to be missed. Five per cent of all cases of joint disease seen at the Mayo clinic have gout. (Dr. Van Dellen has a leaflet on gout that he will send if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

There are many hints that might help a person with joint pain to suspect gout and have it treated before extensive damage occurs.

The disorder is characterized by intervals of complete well being. The initial bouts last approximately a week and the pain-free intervals may persist for months or years. But in time the sieges come more frequently, last longer, and are more severe.

The intervals of freedom from discomfort become shorter, and in time the victim is in persistent pain. Gout often begins in a big toe but may involve other joints. The attack usually occurs several hours after midnight and awakens the person from a sound sleep. The affected joint is tender to the touch, excruciatingly painful, and bluish in color.

The attacks may follow injury, too much walking, exposure to cold, or overindulgence in alcohol. Sometimes they develop after an operation or a hypodermic injection of liver extract. Proper diagnosis is all important because the disturbance responds dramatically to treatment, in contrast to other forms of rheumatism.

MOTHER'S TEMPER

A.B.F. writes: My 18-month-old niece does not eat very well. Would the mother's uncontrolable temper have anything to do with it? She has no patience with the little one.

REPLY

Yes. Parents should make meal time a happy time. The more pleasant and leisurely the environment, the better for all concerned.

GERMS ON CLOTHING

Mrs. J. writes: Can germs spewed by coughing and sneezing be spread through clothing to another person?

REPLY

No. On the other hand, microorganisms that remain alive on a person's clothing may contaminate his hands and be transmitted to the nose or mouth.

TRAINING AND TALKING

REPLY

Most youngsters are toilet trained between the ages of 2 and 3. By this time, most children are talking. It is conceivable that the opposite occurs in some instances. In addition, if the child does not talk before age 3, a thorough examination is advisable with particular reference to hearing.

MEDICINES FOR DIABETIC

G.L. writes: Can a diabetic (on insulin) take any other medication, such as a tranquilizer?

REPLY

Yes. The majority of diabetics can take almost any type of medication, even though they are using insulin hypodermically.

EXAM FOR APPENDICITIS

H. G. writes: Is there any way for a person to tell whether he has appendicitis, other than to wait for a severe attack?

REPLY

Fluoroscopic examination of the colon may help along this line because it allows the physician to localize the exact site of pain. Furthermore, if the appendix fills with barium, there is a good possibility that it is normal. However, most persons who believe they are suffering from mild attacks of appendicitis have a spastic bowel.

PREGNANCY

Mrs. J. M. writes: Will the following cause a miscarriage if done through the second to fourth month of pregnancy: Shoveling snow, sledding, running up and downstairs?

REPLY

There is only one chance in 100 that these activities will lead to miscarriage at this stage of pregnancy.

TOMORROW: Enzymes in diagnosis and treatment.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

"Let's offer her twice what she's getting here to be a model in our show room," proposed one. "I'm afraid," demurred the other. "She looks like an innocent little thing and one of those fresh buyers might take advantage of her. I think it's up to us first to teach her what's right and wrong."

Unbeaten Hyndman Scores 3rd Pen-Mar League Victory

Centerville Defeated 5-2 By Merchants

Flintstone	0	3	.000

Hyndman's Firemen scored their third straight victory by handing the Centerville Reds their first setback of the Pen-Mar Baseball League campaign in a twilight game staged yesterday at Hyndman. The score was 5-2.

Robert "Ab" See, who replaced starter Jim Leydig in the 7th inning with the Reds in front, 2-1, became the eventual winner when the Merchants scored two runs in the seventh and a like number of tallies in the eighth frame.

See To The Rescue

See pitched the last three frames, yielded three hits, shut out the Reds, struck out one batsman and failed to issue a free ticket. The win was the second of the season for "Ab" who has appeared in three games and yielded only one earned run in 15 innings.

Glentis Streett's mighty homer over the left field barrier in the 5th inning gave Centerville a 2-1 lead. Cliff Clites' circuit belt that just cleared the left field fence in the 7th knotted the count at 2-all.

Pinch-hitters also played a prominent role in the Hyndman victory. In the sixth Gary Lehman, hitting for Leydig, doubled, moved to third on a sacrifice bunt and scored the Merchants' first run on Bob Bryant's sacrifice fly. In the 7th pinch-hitter Rizer delivered a two-base clout that scored a run.

Dwight Rose and Manager Mel Nee were Centerville's leading stickers with two hits each. One of Rose's hits was a two-bagger.

Leydig, Hyndman's starter, yielded nine hits in six innings, fanned three and walked four. Glenn Deremer, who pitched for Hyndman's pennant winning team last season, went the route for the Reds and was nicked for nine safeties. He fanned eight and gave up no bases on balls.

Barrelville and Grantsville, the only other unbeaten teams in the league, will play at Barrelville on Saturday.

Cards Trim Wellersburg

Salisbury's Cardinals moved into the .500 class yesterday by scoring their second win at the expense of Wellersburg in a game played at Salisbury. The score was 14-4.

The winners racked up a total of 13 hits, including a homer and two singles by Gordon Oester, two triples by Gale Love and two singles each by Don Lowery, Don Carey and Jim Robinson.

Robinson, who dropped his first two starts of the season, notched his initial victory yesterday. He limited Wellersburg to six safeties. Russ Jones, who was replaced by Witt in the 6th, was tagged with the loss, his third in a row.

Mt. Savage Is Victor

Mt. Savage shook a 3-game losing streak to notch its first victory of the season at the expense of the Flintstone Farmers in a game staged at Flintstone. The score was 7-3 and the loss was the third straight for Manager Charley Doyle's Aggies.

Flintstone held Mt. Savage to a 2-1 score until the ninth frame when the visitors exploded for five runs, punctuated by a triple by Regis Fair with the bases loaded. Fair also banged a two-bagger and Lowery rapped a double and single for the winners. Don Hudson's double was among the seven hits yielded by the veteran Ralph Dickel who made his season record 1-1.

The scores:

Centerville 000 011 00—2 12 2

Braves Edge Dodgers, 5-4

Covington's Single Wins Game In 8th

By FRED LINDECKE
United Press International

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Wes Covington, just recovered from a flu attack, singled home the winning run Wednesday as the Milwaukee Braves defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-4, coming from behind with two runs each in the seventh and eighth innings.

Covington drove in Eddie Mathews with the winning counter in the eighth after Mathews had tied the game a few moments before with his third single of the day which sent Felix Mantilla home.

The rally gave Bob Giggie his first major league win. The fourth of five Milwaukee pitchers, he held the Dodgers hitless and scoreless in the seventh and eighth, retiring for a pinch-hitter in the Braves' eighth. Bob Trowbridge pitched the ninth for Milwaukee.

Milwaukee starter Joey Jay, who gave up four of the Dodgers' five hits, was driven out in the fifth when the Dodgers scored all their runs.

Jay lost his control. After striking out the first two men in the fifth, he walked the next two. Charley Neal singled in the first run, and a third walk loaded the bases.

Cleanup hitter Don Demeter then slapped a single to left, which Joe Adcock bobbled, permitting all the runners to score and sending Demeter to third.

Dodger reliever Art Fowler suffered the loss, his second against two victories, as he gave up the tieing and winning runs in the eighth.

It was a ragged contest, with 32 players used by both sides, and 14 bases on balls handed out by seven pitchers.

Baltimore Orioles Jolt Cleveland Indians, 6-5

Pappas Gets Credit For Third Triumph

CLEVELAND (UPI) —The Baltimore Orioles, after building up a 6-1 lead, held off the Cleveland Indians in the eighth and ninth innings to nip the league leaders, 6-5, and give Milt Pappas his third victory of the year.

The Indians scored once in the eighth and rookie Ray Webster smashed a three - run homer in the ninth off Billy Loes, who replaced Pappas after a walk to George Strickland and Woodie Held's single. Loes then retired the side.

The homer was the first major league hit for Webster, who pinch-batted for Billy Martin two innings earlier.

The Orioles bunched five hits for their other tallies in the seventh, routing both Humberto Robinson and Al Cicotte.

Billy Gardner, Willie Miranda and Bob Boyd doubled in the rally, Miranda's driving in two of the runs. Willie Tasby singled home another and the fourth tally came in on Gene Woodling's sacrifice fly.

Cards Stage Rally In 8th, Top Phils, 8-7

Nunn Posts First Major League Win

By RUSS GREEN

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals, beaten by a five - run ninth inning flareup Tuesday night, rallied for four in the eighth Wednesday night to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies, 8-7, and gave rookie relief hurler Howie Nunn his first major league victory.

The Cards trailed, 6-4, when Stan Musial opened the eighth with his first homer of the year and the 396th of his career off Phils starter Ray Semproch. Jack Meyer, the eventual loser, relived Semproch and gave up a single to Ken Boyer and a walk to Bill White.

Bobby Smith was safe when Ed Bouchee dropped a throw by Gran Hamner, filling the bases, and then Joe Cunningham batted for Hal Smith and hit a two-run double off the right field wall. Dick Farrell came in, walked George Crowe intentionally when he batted for Nunn and then Bobby Smith scored on Lee Tate's forceout.

Jim Brosnan, who pitched the last two innings for the Cardinals, gave up a run in the ninth on Willie Jones' triple and a sacrifice fly by Gene Freese. Bob Bowman singled to put the tieing run on base but Brosnan steadied to retire the side.

The Cards led 2-1 going into the fifth but Jones opened that inning with a double and Kellner's error contributed to a four - run Phillies' inning marked by Hamner's two-run homer.

Boyer's two run homer in the sixth brought the Cards within one run, but Post hit his sixth homer in 11 games to give the Phillies a 6-4 lead which was wiped out by the Cards' winning rally.

Giardello Wins Over Mims

Cops Split Verdict In Bout At Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joey Giardello, blood gushing from a slashed face, thrust himself into the middleweight sweepstakes Wednesday night with a heroic finish that gained him a 10-round split decision over Holly Mims.

Giardello, underdog in the late 2-1 betting, rallied from a beating in the eighth round and won the verdict of Referee Eddie La Fond and Judge Benny Alperstein in the nationally televised slugfest.

The decision brought lusty cheers and boos from the sellout house of 3,000 in Capitol Arena. Backers of Mims, a home town veteran, sprayed the ring with wadded newspapers and paper cups.

La Fond scored it for Giardello, 91-88, and Alperstein had it 95-92. Judge Julian Whitestone preferred Mims, 95-94. The Associated Press gave Giardello a 95-94 edge.

Mims opened a slight cut over Giardello's left eye in the first but really tore a gash on the right side of Joye's face in the furious eighth.

Unbeaten Hyndman Scores 3rd Pen-Mar League Victory

Hyndman's Firemen scored their third straight victory by handing the Centerville Reds their first setback of the Pen-Mar Baseball League campaign in a twilight game staged yesterday at Hyndman. The score was 5-2.

Robert "Ab" See, who replaced starter Jim Leydig in the 7th inning with the Reds in front, 2-1, became the eventual winner when the Merchants scored two runs in the seventh and a like number of tallies in the eighth frame.

See To The Rescue

See pitched the last three frames, yielded three hits, shut out the Reds, struck out one batsman and failed to issue a free ticket. The win was the second of the season for "Ab" who has appeared in three games and yielded only one earned run in 15 innings.

Glentis Streett's mighty homer over the left field barrier in the 5th inning gave Centerville a 2-1 lead. Cliff Clites' circuit belt that just cleared the left field fence in the 7th knotted the count at 2-all.

Pinch-hitters also played a prominent role in the Hyndman victory. In the sixth Gary Lehman, hitting for Leydig, doubled, moved to third on a sacrifice bunt and scored the Merchants' first run on Bob Bryant's sacrifice fly. In the 7th pinch-hitter Rizer delivered a two-base clout that scored a run.

Dwight Rose and Manager Mel Nee were Centerville's leading stickers with two hits each. One of Rose's hits was a two-bagger.

Leydig, Hyndman's starter, yielded nine hits in six innings, fanned three and walked four. Glenn Deremer, who pitched for Hyndman's pennant winning team last season, went the route for the Reds and was nicked for nine safeties. He fanned eight and gave up no bases on balls.

Barrelville and Grantsville, the only other unbeaten teams in the league, will play at Barrelville on Saturday.

Cards Trim Wellersburg

Salisbury's Cardinals moved into the .500 class yesterday by scoring their second win at the expense of Wellersburg in a game played at Salisbury. The score was 14-4.

The winners racked up a total of 13 hits, including a homer and two singles by Gordon Oester, two triples by Gale Love and two singles each by Don Lowery, Don Carey and Jim Robinson.

Robinson, who dropped his first two starts of the season, notched his initial victory yesterday. He limited Wellersburg to six safeties. Russ Jones, who was replaced by Watt in the 6th, was tagged with the loss, his third in a row.

Mt. Savage Is Victor

Mt. Savage shook a 3-game losing streak to notch its first victory of the season at the expense of the Flintstone Farmers in a game staged at Flintstone. The score was 7-3 and the loss was the third straight for Manager Charley Doyle's Aggies.

Flintstone held Mt. Savage to a 2-1 score until the ninth frame when the visitors exploded for five runs, punctuated by a triple by Regis Fair with the bases loaded. Fair also banged a two-bagger and Lowery rapped a double and single for the winners. Don Hudson's double was among the seven hits yielded by the veteran Ralph Dickel who made his season record 1-1.

Covington's Single Wins Game In 8th

By FRED LINDECKE
United Press International

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Wes Covington, just recovered from a flu attack, singled home the winning run Wednesday as the Milwaukee Braves defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-4, coming from behind with two runs each in the seventh and eighth innings.

Covington drove in Eddie Mathews with the winning counter in the eighth after Mathews had tied the game a few moments before with his third single of the day which sent Felix Mantilla home.

The rally gave Bob Giggie his first major league win. The fourth of five Milwaukee pitchers, he held the Dodgers hitless and scoreless in the seventh and eighth, retiring for a pinch-hitter in the Braves' eighth. Bob Trowbridge pitched the ninth for Milwaukee.

Milwaukee starter Joey Jay, who gave up four of the Dodgers' five hits, was driven out in the fifth when the Dodgers scored all their runs.

Jay lost his control. After striking out the first two men in the fifth, he walked the next two. Charley Neal singled in the first run, and a third walk loaded the bases.

Cleanup hitter Don Demeter then slapped a single to left, which Joe Adcock bobbled, permitting all the runners to score and sending Demeter to third.

Dodger reliever Art Fowler suffered the loss, his second against two victories, as he gave up the tieing and winning runs in the eighth.

It was a ragged contest, with 32 players used by both sides, and 14 bases on balls handed out by seven pitchers.

Baltimore Orioles Jolt Cleveland Indians, 6-5

Pappas Gets Credit For Third Triumph

CLEVELAND (UPI) —The Baltimore Orioles, after building up a 6-1 lead, held off the Cleveland Indians in the eighth and ninth innings to nip the league leaders, 6-5, and give Milt Pappas his third victory of the year.

The Indians scored once in the eighth and rookie Ray Webster smashed a three - run homer in the ninth off Billy Loes, who replaced Pappas after a walk to George Strickland and Woodie Held's single. Loes then retired the side.

The homer was the first major league hit for Webster, who pinch-batted for Billy Martin two innings earlier.

The Orioles bunched five hits for their other tallies in the seventh, routing both Humberto Robinson and Al Cicotte.

Billy Gardner, Willie Miranda and Bob Boyd doubled in the rally, Miranda's driving in two of the runs. Willie Tasby singled home another and the fourth tally came in on Gene Woodling's sacrifice fly.

Cards Stage Rally In 8th, Top Phils, 8-7

Nunn Posts First Major League Win

By RUSS GREEN

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals, beaten by a five - run ninth inning flareup Tuesday night, rallied for four in the eighth Wednesday night to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies, 8-7, and gave rookie relief hurler Howie Nunn his first major league victory.

The Cards trailed, 6-4, when Stan Musial opened the eighth with his first homer of the year and the 396th of his career off Phils starter Ray Semproch. Jack Meyer, the eventual loser, relived Semproch and gave up a single to Ken Boyer and a walk to Bill White.

Bobby Smith was safe when Ed Bouchee dropped a throw by Gran Hamner, filling the bases, and then Joe Cunningham batted for Hal Smith and hit a two-run double off the right field wall. Dick Farrell came in, walked George Crowe intentionally when he batted for Nunn and then Bobby Smith scored on Lee Tate's forceout.

Jim Brosnan, who pitched the last two innings for the Cardinals, gave up a run in the ninth on Willie Jones' triple and a sacrifice fly by Gene Freese. Bob Bowman singled to put the tieing run on base but Brosnan steadied to retire the side.

The Cards led 2-1 going into the fifth but Jones opened that inning with a double and Kellner's error contributed to a four - run Phillies' inning marked by Hamner's two-run homer.

Boyer's two run homer in the sixth brought the Cards within one run, but Post hit his sixth homer in 11 games to give the Phillies a 6-4 lead which was wiped out by the Cards' winning rally.

Giardello Wins Over Mims

Cops Split Verdict In Bout At Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joey Giardello, blood gushing from a slashed face, thrust himself into the middleweight sweepstakes Wednesday night with a heroic finish that gained him a 10-round split decision over Holly Mims.

Giardello, underdog in the late 2-1 betting, rallied from a beating in the eighth round and won the verdict of Referee Eddie La Fond and Judge Benny Alperstein in the nationally televised slugfest.

The decision brought lusty cheers and boos from the sellout house of 3,000 in Capitol Arena. Backers of Mims, a home town veteran, sprayed the ring with wadded newspapers and paper cups.

La Fond scored it for Giardello, 91-86, and Alperstein had it 95-92. Judge Julian Whitestone preferred Mims, 95-94. The Associated Press gave Giardello a 95-94 edge.

Mims opened a slight cut over Giardello's left eye in the first but really tore a gash on the right side of Joye's face in the furious eighth.

Washington Tops Chisox In 6-4 Game

Allison Hits Grand Slammer; Team Cops 7 Of 9 On The Road

CHICAGO (UPI) — Rookie Bob Allison clubbed a grand slam home run in the seventh inning Wednesday to boost the Washington Senators to a 6-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox for their ninth win in the last 11 games.

The victory also lifted the Senators, with a season record of 13-10, past the White Sox, now with an 11-10 mark, and ended Washington's best western road trip in 10 years with seven wins and two losses.

It was the White Sox's fourth straight loss.

Allison's fourth homer and his second in two days came after pitcher Early Wynn gave up a single to Ron Samford, a double to Faye Throneberry and walked Reno Bertoia. Allison hit the 1-2 pitch to saddle Wynn with his second loss against three victories.

Dick Hyde and Truman Clevenger hurled the last three frames for the Senators to preserve the win for Camilo Pascual, his second of the year against two losses. Hyde was tapped for the last Sox run on Billy Goodman's single and Earl Torgeson's pinch double in the eighth.

Pascual allowed seven hits in six innings, permitting a run on Norm Cash's triple and Billy Goodman's single in the second. In the third a walk, an error, a fielder's choice and two singles accounted for two runs.

Allison, who had three hits in four trips, singled in the first, stole second and scored on Jim Lemon's double. In the sixth Harmon Killibrew walked and scored on Lemon's second two-bagger.

Sword Dancer To Be Ridden By Shoemaker

Willie Gets Chance To Cop Triple Crown

BALTIMORE (AP) — Willie Shoemaker has a good chance of becoming a triple crown winner — even though the colt under him won't.

The trainer of Sword Dancer, who finished a close second behind Tomy Lee and Shoemaker in the Kentucky Derby, said Wednesday that the little Californian will ride the Brookmeade Stable pride in both the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes.

Tomy Lee was ruled out of the Preakness and Belmont because he was worn out after his Derby effort. That left Shoemaker free to take Sword Dancer.

Sword Dancer was ridden by Bill Boland in the Derby. But Brookmeade's trainer, Elliott Burch, said the shift to Shoemaker should in no way reflect on Boland.

"This in no way expresses displeasure with the ride Bill Boland gave Sword Dancer in the Derby," Elliott said. "It was a rough, hard-run race, and we are grateful for the job Boland did in finishing second, beaten only a nose, and getting our colt back safely."

Burch said he and Brookmeade owner, Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane, had tried to get Shoemaker to ride Sword Dancer in all three triple crown races. He had won on the colt the Saturday before the Derby in the Stepping Stone purse.

But a prior commitment to Tomy Lee's owner put him up on the little California speedster for the run for the roses. And Willie is generally credited with virtually carrying Tomy Lee those last feverishly fought yards to the wire.

Shoemaker has ridden in two Preaknesses but has come no closer than second. He was up on the much-talked-about Silky Sullivan in the black-eyed susan feature last year and finished a way-back eighth. In 1954, he rode the favored Correlation but wound up second best to Hasty Road.

Just before tonight's deadline, Emil Dolce made his Manassa Mauler a late nominee for the Preakness. The colt's impressive victory over First Landing at 63-1 odds in the Wood Memorial three weeks ago convinced Dolce it was worth the $10,000 supplemental entry fee.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It's only an exhibition but baseball may never produce another like it.

"It" is the game set for Thursday night in Memorial Coliseum between the New York Yankees and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I know it's goin' to be wonderful, something I'll never forget."

The Dodger front office is making no forecasts about the attendance, but indications are that more than 80,000 will crowd into the big stadium.

Game time is 8 p.m., PDT. (11 p.m. EST)

Record 2,402 To Vie In Open Golf Tourney

Mamaroneck Test Is Set June 11-13

NEW YORK (UPI) — A record of 2,402 golfers, including defending champion Tommy Bolt and former winners Ben Hogan, Cary Middlecoff and 57-year-old Gene Sarazen, have entered the 59th National Open championship to be played at Mamaroneck, N. Y., June 11-13.

Hogan, who won the Colonial Open at Fort Worth, Tex., last weekend in a playoff with Fred Hawkins, will be seeking an unprecedented fifth Open title. He previously won in 1948, 1950, 1951 and 1953. As a recent Open champion, he is one of 20 players exempted from qualifying for the championship tournament to be played at the Winged Foot Golf Club.

The total field represents an increase of 270 over the old record of 2,132 set last year when the championship tournament was held at Tulsa, Okla. This year's entry list is made up of 1,441 professionals and 961 amateurs.

The big boost in the number of entries may be attributed in a large measure to a new system of double qualifying, which is being tried this year for the first time.

The players exempt from local or sectional qualifying are:

West Virginia School For Deaf Is Winner Of Triangular Meet

Berkeley Is Loser By Point; Cheese Cops Three Events

It took the last event on the program to decide the winner yesterday as the West Virginia School for the Deaf captured a triangular track and field meet at Romney by amassing 65⅓ points to Berkeley Springs' 64⅓ while Fort Ashby finished last with 25⅓ tallies.

Berkeley Springs led by 4⅓ points, 59⅓ to 55⅓, with the mile relay as the last event on the program and the Lions' quartet won it to pick up 10 points to Berkeley's five to earn a one-point verdict in the overall meet.

West Virginia Deaf won out of a possible 13 first places and tied Berkeley Springs in another. The Indians had four firsts and one tie. Fort Ashby failed to win an event.

The Lions lost ten points in the 880 relay when its team was disqualified for going across the lane while passing the baton. The Romney team was winning this event by a wide margin but Berkeley was moved into first place and Fort Ashby took second.

Orme of Berkeley Springs won the discus with a throw of 105 feet, 2 inches and the 12 pound shot put with a heave of 40 feet, 5 inches.

R. Frazier of the West Virginia School for the Deaf won the mile run in 5 minutes, 8 seconds, to equal the best previous mark of the year at Romney, credited to Roy Mills of Keyser High School.

Senators Wind Up Best Western Road Trip In Ten Years

Washington Tops Chisox In 6-4 Game

Allison Hits Grand Slammer; Team Cops 7 Of 9 On The Road

CHICAGO (UPI) — Rookie Bob Allison clubbed a grand slam home run in the seventh inning Wednesday to boost the Washington Senators to a 6-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox for their ninth win in the last 11 games.

The victory also lifted the Senators, with a season record of 13-10, past the White Sox, now with an 11-10 mark, and ended Washington's best western road trip in 10 years with seven wins and two losses.

It was the White Sox's fourth straight loss.

Allison's fourth homer and his second in two days came after pitcher Early Wynn gave up a single to Ron Samford, a double to Faye Throneberry and walked Reno Bertoia. Allison hit the 1-2 pitch to saddle Wynn with his second loss against three victories.

Dick Hyde and Truman Clevenger hurled the last three frames for the Senators to preserve the win for Camilo Pascual, his second of the year against two losses. Hyde was tapped for the last Sox run on Billy Goodman's single and Earl Torgeson's pinch double in the eighth.

Pascual allowed seven hits in six innings, permitting a run on Norm Cash's triple and Billy Goodman's single in the second. In the third a walk, an error, a fielder's choice and two singles accounted for two runs.

Allison, who had three hits in four trips, singled in the first, stole second and scored on Jim Lemon's double. In the sixth Harmon Killibrew walked and scored on Lemon's second two-bagger.

West Virginia School For Deaf Is Winner Of Triangular Meet

Berkeley Is Loser By Point; Cheese Cops Three Events

It took the last event on the program to decide the winner yesterday as the West Virginia School for the Deaf captured a triangular track and field meet at Romney by amassing 65⅓ points to Berkeley Springs' 64⅓ while Fort Ashby finished last with 25⅓ tallies.

Berkeley Springs led by 4⅓ points, 59⅓ to 55⅓, with the mile relay as the last event on the program and the Lions' quartet won it to pick up 10 points to Berkeley's five to earn a one-point verdict in the overall meet.

The Lions lost ten points in the 880 relay when its team was disqualified for going across the lane while passing the baton. The Romney team was winning this event by a wide margin but Berkeley was moved into first place and Fort Ashby took second.

Orme of Berkeley Springs won the discus with a throw of 105 feet, 2 inches and the 12 pound shot put with a heave of 40 feet, 5 inches.

R. Frazier of the West Virginia School for the Deaf won the mile run in 5 minutes, 8 seconds, to equal the best previous mark of the year at Romney, credited to Roy Mills of Keyser High School.

Boston's Six Homers Sink Tigers, 17-6

Collect 16 Runs In Three Innings, Get 18 Safeties

By JACK BERRY

DETROIT (UPI) — The Boston Red Sox fractured Detroit for six home runs and 16 runs in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings Wednesday to blast the Tigers 17-6 and hand Jimmie Dykes his first defeat.

All of the Detroit scoring came on three home runs to make a total of nine for the day and 33 in the last eight games at Briggs Stadium.

The assault on starter Paul Foytack and four successors was reminiscent of the last few weeks when a string of humiliating defeats cost Bill Norman his job as manager and brought in Dykes Saturday night.

Foytack was working on a 4-0 lead due to a pair of two - run homers by Al Kaline off starter Tom Brewer when the Red Sox started the comeback. It was small at first—a solo homer by Frank Malzone in the fifth for only the second hit off Foytack. But then Boston exploded with five in the sixth and seventh and six in the eighth.

Gary Geiger and Dick Gernert topped the parade. Geiger walloped his first two homers of the season plus a single and double to drive in four runs. Gernert sent four across with a homer and long double. Marty Keough and Jackie Jensen also contributed homers to the 18 - hit Boston attack.

Frank Bauman took over for Brewer at the start of the fourth and won his first game against no defeats. He yielded a two-run homer to Lou Berberet in the eighth. Foytack, who has failed to go the route in six starts, now is 0-4.

Detroit had another blow when Kaline bruised an ankle making a spectacular diving catch of Don Buddin's line drive in the seventh. At first it was thought he sprained the ankle but a later report said it was only a bruise although he'll be out several days.

Johnson To Fight Valdes At Garden

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nino Valdes of Cuba and young Alonzo Johnson of Pittsburgh were matched Wednesday for the main event of a program that will feature "a ton and one-half" of heavyweights at Madison Square Garden, May 29.

This will be the first program arranged by Teddy Brenner, the new Garden matchmaker. It also is the first all-heavyweight show at the Garden in several years. The 10-round Valdes-Johnson bout will be nationally televised.

The 23-year-old Johnson, a former National AAU light heavyweight champion, has won 15 or 16 bouts as a professional. He has won all of his three 1959 matches, against Charley Forrest, Jimmie Slade and Billy Hunter.

Culmone Rides Three Winners

CAMDEN, N. J., May 6 (AP)—Miss Thing won the featured Lakehurst Purse at Garden State Park this afternoon under a rousing ride by Joe Culmone who was completing a triple.

The brown daughter of Sea Charger was installed the favorite by the estimated 20,000 and she returned $6.20, $3.20 and $2.60.

Improve closed fast to take down second money over Ebbie's Girl.

A scattered few of the daily double fans showed an early profit when a return of $434.40 was posted on the "7-6" combination of Chersonese and Star Spangle. The first winner paid $8.40, and the second, $56.

Michore, 9-1 Shot, Takes Pimlico 8th

Scores Over Plion And Returns $20.20

BALTIMORE, May 6 (AP) — Michore staved off the late rally of the 3-5 favorite, Plion, in the Rogers Park Purse at Pimlico today to gain his initial triumph of the 1959 season.

The 4-year-old colt owned by Walter E. Crismer's Powhatan Farms led the entire six-furlong distance and was timed in 1.11, the fastest three-quarter mile time of the three-day-old session.

Posting a $20.20, $6.80, $4.20 mutuel to his backers in the crowd of 8,791 fans, Michore, ridden by Carlos Gonzalez, held a length and a quarter margin over Plion at the finish of the allowance test.

The latter was second by three lengths over Our Holiday.

Plion was the second 3-5 shot to finish second today under Larry Adams. In the sixth race, Adams was astride Lord Gregor who was defeated a nose by Joseph Nechamkin's Frank Again, a $12 for $2 chance.

Despite those defeats, Adams won three races, capturing the third with Draconis ($5), the fifth with Turkish Gold, ($9.40) and the ninth with Aeschylus ($9.40).

Bill Lester captured two races. He drove Frank Again to his narrow victory in the sixth and was astride Mrs. Francis J. Wilson's Phantom Gold ($17.40) when he scored in the seventh.

Dave Hillman Of Cubs Beats Pittsburgh, 2-0

Hurls 2-Hitter, Faces Only 30, Defeats Haddix

By JOHN CARROLL

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Right-hander Dave Hillman, an acknowledged "hard-luck guy" of the Cubs' mound staff, pitched a two-hitter Wednesday as his Chicago teammates hammered four doubles to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3-0.

Hillman, born 31 years ago in Duncannon, Va., was clipped for a leadoff single by Don Hoak in the first inning and then set down 15 batters in succession before giving up the Pirates' other hit in the sixth inning.

He faced only 30 men, and only one runner got beyond first base. That was in the ninth inning when he issued his only walk of the game to catcher Hank Foiles, who got as far as third on an infield out and a sacrifice.

Hillman, whose 3.14 ERA last year was the best among Chicago pitchers despite a 4-8 record, got plenty of extra-base support in the form of doubles by Bobby Thomson, Lee Walls, Ernie Banks and John Goryl.

They all came off loser Harvey Haddix, who going into the game had a 2-0 record and led the National League with a 1.57 ERA. Hillman now has a 2-1 chart.

The Cubs scored twice in the second. Randy Jackson walked with one out and raced home on Thomson's double to left field. George Altman delivered another run scoring blow, a single to right.

Chicago put the pressure on Haddix again an inning later, this time after he had retired the first two batters. Walls doubled off Bob Skinner's glove in shallow left field and Banks' two-bagger into the left field pocket left the Pirates trailing by three runs. That was all Hillman needed.

The Cubs wasted their fourth double of the afternoon in the fifth inning when Dick Stuart speared Jim Marshall's hot liner near first base and threw to second to double Goryl, who opened the inning with a two-base hit.

Boston's Six Homers Sink Tigers, 17-6

Collect 16 Runs In Three Innings, Get 18 Safeties

By JACK BERRY

DETROIT (UPI) — The Boston Red Sox fractured Detroit for six home runs and 16 runs in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings Wednesday to blast the Tigers 17-6 and hand Jimmie Dykes his first defeat.

All of the Detroit scoring came on three home runs to make a total of nine for the day and 33 in the last eight games at Briggs Stadium.

The assault on starter Paul Foytack and four successors was reminiscent of the last few weeks when a string of humiliating defeats cost Bill Norman his job as manager and brought in Dykes Saturday night.

Foytack was working on a 4-0 lead due to a pair of two - run homers by Al Kaline off starter Tom Brewer when the Red Sox started the comeback. It was small at first—a solo homer by Frank Malzone in the fifth for only the second hit off Foytack. But then Boston exploded with five in the sixth and seventh and six in the eighth.

Gary Geiger and Dick Gernert topped the parade. Geiger walloped his first two homers of the season plus a single and double to drive in four runs. Gernert sent four across with a homer and long double. Marty Keough and Jackie Jensen also contributed homers to the 18 - hit Boston attack.

Frank Bauman took over for Brewer at the start of the fourth and won his first game against no defeats. He yielded a two-run homer to Lou Berberet in the eighth. Foytack, who has failed to go the route in six starts, now is 0-4.

Detroit had another blow when Kaline bruised an ankle making a spectacular diving catch of Don Buddin's line drive in the seventh. At first it was thought he sprained the ankle but a later report said it was only a bruise although he'll be out several days.

Johnson To Fight Valdes At Garden

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nino Valdes of Cuba and young Alonzo Johnson of Pittsburgh were matched Wednesday for the main event of a program that will feature "a ton and one-half" of heavyweights at Madison Square Garden, May 29.

This will be the first program arranged by Teddy Brenner, the new Garden matchmaker. It also is the first all-heavyweight show at the Garden in several years. The 10-round Valdes-Johnson bout will be nationally televised.

The 23-year-old Johnson, a former National AAU light heavyweight champion, has won 15 or 16 bouts as a professional. He has won all of his three 1959 matches, against Charley Forrest, Jimmie Slade and Billy Hunter.

Culmone Rides Three Winners

CAMDEN, N. J., May 6 (AP)—Miss Thing won the featured Lakehurst Purse at Garden State Park this afternoon under a rousing ride by Joe Culmone who was completing a triple.

The brown daughter of Sea Charger was installed the favorite by the estimated 20,000 and she returned $6.20, $3.20 and $2.60.

Improve closed fast to take down second money over Ebbie's Girl.

A scattered few of the daily double fans showed an early profit when a return of $434.40 was posted on the "7-6" combination of Chersonese and Star Spangle. The first winner paid $8.40, and the second, $56.

Michore, 9-1 Shot, Takes Pimlico 8th

Scores Over Plion And Returns $20.20

BALTIMORE, May 6 (AP) — Michore staved off the late rally of the 3-5 favorite, Plion, in the Rogers Park Purse at Pimlico today to gain his initial triumph of the 1959 season.

The 4-year-old colt owned by Walter E. Crismer's Powhatan Farms led the entire six-furlong distance and was timed in 1.11, the fastest three-quarter mile time of the three-day-old session.

Posting a $20.20, $6.80, $4.20 mutuel to his backers in the crowd of 8,791 fans, Michore, ridden by Carlos Gonzalez, held a length and a quarter margin over Plion at the finish of the allowance test.

The latter was second by three lengths over Our Holiday.

Plion was the second 3-5 shot to finish second today under Larry Adams. In the sixth race, Adams was astride Lord Gregor who was defeated a nose by Joseph Nechamkin's Frank Again, a $12 for $2 chance.

Despite those defeats, Adams won three races, capturing the third with Draconis ($5), the fifth with Turkish Gold, ($9.40) and the ninth with Aeschylus ($9.40).

Bill Lester captured two races. He drove Frank Again to his narrow victory in the sixth and was astride Mrs. Francis J. Wilson's Phantom Gold ($17.40) when he scored in the seventh.

Dave Hillman Of Cubs Beats Pittsburgh, 2-0

Hurls 2-Hitter, Faces Only 30, Defeats Haddix

By JOHN CARROLL

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Right-hander Dave Hillman, an acknowledged "hard-luck guy" of the Cubs' mound staff, pitched a two-hitter Wednesday as his Chicago teammates hammered four doubles to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3-0.

Hillman, born 31 years ago in Duncannon, Va., was clipped for a leadoff single by Don Hoak in the first inning and then set down 15 batters in succession before giving up the Pirates' other hit in the sixth inning.

He faced only 30 men, and only one runner got beyond first base. That was in the ninth inning when he issued his only walk of the game to catcher Hank Foiles, who got as far as third on an infield out and a sacrifice.

Hillman, whose 3.14 ERA last year was the best among Chicago pitchers despite a 4-8 record, got plenty of extra-base support in the form of doubles by Bobby Thomson, Lee Walls, Ernie Banks and John Goryl.

They all came off loser Harvey Haddix, who going into the game had a 2-0 record and led the National League with a 1.57 ERA. Hillman now has a 2-1 chart.

The Cubs scored twice in the second. Randy Jackson walked with one out and raced home on Thomson's double to left field. George Altman delivered another run scoring blow, a single to right.

Chicago put the pressure on Haddix again an inning later, this time after he had retired the first two batters. Walls doubled off Bob Skinner's glove in shallow left field and Banks' two-bagger into the left field pocket left the Pirates trailing by three runs. That was all Hillman needed.

The Cubs wasted their fourth double of the afternoon in the fifth inning when Dick Stuart speared Jim Marshall's hot liner near first base and threw to second to double Goryl, who opened the inning with a two-base hit.

Trout Stocked In So. Branch

MOOREFIELD — This week's release from the Conservation Commission reports that trout will be stocked in the South Branch. It is the only stream listed for this area.

As the trout waters of the South Branch begin at Petersburg and on south to the headwaters above Franklin the assumption is that trout will be stocked through the Smoke Hole region this week.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Only an outstanding role could get George Sanders to interrupt his honeymoon with Benita (Coleman) in Switzerland to fly to Japan to start "The Last Voyage" immediately. Well, George is in one of THREE outstanding roles in this thriller about the sinking of a luxury liner. Robert Stack and Edmond O'Brien have the other two. This location sounds like married man's heaven, both Bob and Eddie also are taking their wives to Japan.

The liner which will be sunk is the famed old Ile de France, recently sold to a Japanese scrap dealer. Producer-Director-Scripter Andrew Stone and his wife Virginia prevailed on MGM to buy the "Ile"—but no one will admit it. The French steamline, original owners of the great liner, insisted on absoulte secrecy because "a French liner cannot be sunk!"

Hadn't heard anything about Jack Palance in some time until I was told that he gets the top role in "The Smile of a Woman," based on the theft of Leonardo Da Vinci's Mona Lisa from the Louvre in Paris.

Jack plays the forger of the masterpiece who steals the priceless painting by substituting a copy, but conscience forces him to restore the original. Great art is now becoming very popular in movies with "The Naked Maja" based on Goya's painting, and "Deluxe Tour" a story of a masterpiece.

I was curious about Palance and Virginia who separate and then reconcile. Although they are estranged now, Jack is having her and the three children visit him in Switzerland this summer before he starts "Smile of a Woman" for Producer Philip Waxman in Paris.

Flash to Lee Remick in Ishpeming "Anatomy of a Murder", your red hair will be dyed platinum blonde soon after you return to Hollywood for the Jean Harlow role in "The Life of Jean Harlow."

Remember that test you made for the Harlow part for Jerry Wald a long time ago, even before you did "The Long Hot Summer?" Now Adela Rogers St. Johns' script is getting a polishing job and I get it straight, Lee, that you are elected.

Your Company, 20th Century-Fox, is sold on you as a big, big star after "These Thousand Hills" and "Anatomy of a Murder."

How wise of Gene Tierney to plan to take it easier when she leaves Menninger's Clinic this time. According to her mother, Belle, Dr. Menninger has told Gene that she is well enough to be out in the world again—but she doesn't want to take any chances. She is renting a small house in Toledo, Kans., near to the hospital and the doctors who give her security.

When her daughter Tina is out of school, she will come to Toledo to visit her mother during the summer vacation. Gene feels that her relapse earlier in the year is due to trying to resume her career too soon and also too much social activity.

A highly successful Bing Crosby property of a few years ago, "Pennies from Heaven," is being dusted off for Andy Williams, who was Pat Boone's summer replacement last year.

Andy has a hit record in "Hawaiian Wedding Song," and is one of the famed Williams brothers who worked with Kay Thompson for years.

Paramount hopes that lightning will strike twice and they'll have as good a picture as they had with Bing.

No one blames Col. Tom Parker for thinking his boy, Elvis Presley, is the greatest thing to come down the pike (not with all the moola Elvis has piled up). But Parker's plans to celebrate Presley's release from the Army are ambitious even for the good colonel: He's setting up a closed circuit TV show from Memphis, showing step by step Elvis' reentry into civilian life, aimed at selling a million tickets in theatres across the country; of course this is not until March 26, 1960.

Meanwhile, contracts continue to stack up for Elvis. Hal Wallis tore up the old deal and has a new contract for four films with Mr. Swivel Hips and 20th Century-Fox has him tied up for two.

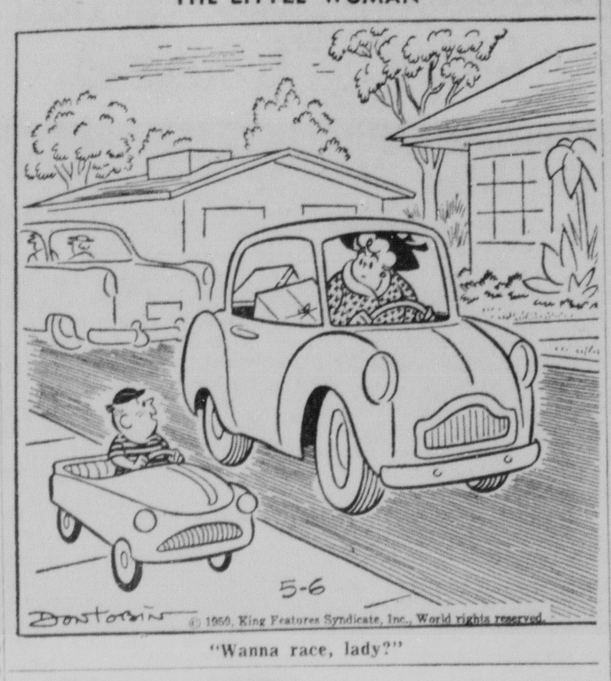
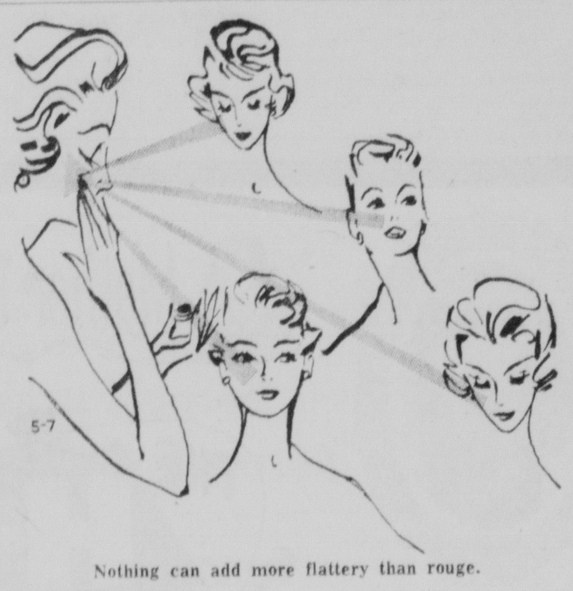
THE LITTLE WOMAN



"Wanna race, lady?"



Nothing can add more flattery than rouge.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Your Most Effective Cosmetic

Of all the cosmetics, women seem to misuse rouge the most.

Perhaps you don't realize it, but rouge is your most effective cosmetic to help create the impression of a different facial type. Actresses behind the footlights have used the trick for years. It's relatively rare to have a perfectly oval face.

If you have a round face and want it to look longer, apply your rouge low on the cheekbone, comparatively close to the nose. Don't work it below the midway point of the cheek (this would make you look older). Work it down the center of the cheek. Remember, you're trying to make your face look longer, so don't put on round circles of rouge . . . that would naturally be an obvious way to accent the roundness. To see the difference . . . center round circles of rouge on your cheekbones and see how they definitely accent the roundness.

If you have a long face, apply your rouge high on the cheekbones and away from the nose; don't apply long-ish streaks of rouge which only make your face look longer.

If you have a narrow face and desire to make it look fuller, keep your rouge high up on the cheekbones. Work it out well to the edges of the cheeks.

There are three kinds of rouge to use — —cream, liquid or cake rouge. Which one is for you . . . that's a common question. Here's a general rule to follow. Apply liquid or cream rouge if your foundation is of the moist kind—cake rouge if your foundation is of the dry kind.

Whatever you use, don't apply the rouge directly to the skin. Be sure there is an undercoat or foundation first. And, start out using very little. The secret is to have it give a subtle, natural, pink olush so it will appear as if your are wearing no rouge at all. There is nothing uglier that will ruin your appearance faster than too much rouge splotched on. It makes one look years older.

But there's nothing lovelier than a naturally lovely skin. Take care of your skin, while it still has that youthful glow. Learn the "Secrets of Skin Care," from my booklet by that title. Your copy is available for 25c and a stamped, return envelope, plus request, sent to Secrets of Charm, c/o this paper.

Gets New Job

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The appointment, effective July 1, of John M. Sayre to the newly-created post of director of development and alumni affairs for Marshall College was announced Wednesday. He is now managing director of the Pt. Pleasant Chamber of Commerce.

Short-Cut To Three Rs?

Dr. Caleb Gattegno, a British educator, recently described in an interview in Paris, a new method of teaching which he declares can enable an illiterate to read after only six hours of instruction. He told of tests he conducted successfully with the technique in Ethiopia, on his return from a year's mission there for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

His system can be applied to any phonetically written lanuage, Dr. Gattegno said. It was developed in his spare time, he added, and consists mainly in rearranging into more logical groups the 231 characters of the Amharic "fidel" or alphabet. Three basic families of characters resulted — two-and-three legged; one-legged, and "no-legged."

For further simplification, he resorted to colors, which he had employed earlier in the "numbers and colors" system he devised for teaching arithmetic. It has been widely used in schools in Europe, Canada and New Zealand.

Five guards at the Ethiopian Ministry of Education in Addis Ababa were his first "subjects." Others were waiters and bellboys at a nearby hotel, and a group of telephone linemen. Five rated "very good," 13 "good" and three "fair" after the six-hour course.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Only an outstanding role could get George Sanders to interrupt his honeymoon with Benita (Coleman) in Switzerland to fly to Japan to start "The Last Voyage" immediately. Well, George is in one of THREE outstanding roles in this thriller about the sinking of a luxury liner. Robert Stack and Edmond O'Brien have the other two. This location sounds like married man's heaven, both Bob and Eddie also are taking their wives to Japan.

The liner which will be sunk is the famed old Ile de France recently sold to a Japanese scrap dealer. Producer-Director-Scripter Andrew Stone and his wife Virginia prevailed on MGM to buy the "Ile"—but no one will admit it. The French steamline, original owners of the great liner, insisted on absoulte secrecy because "a French liner cannot be sunk!"

Hadn't heard anything about Jack Palance in some time until I was told that he gets the top role in "The Smile of a Woman," based on the theft of Leonardo Da Vinci's Mona Lisa from the Louvre in Paris.

Jack plays the forger of the masterpiece who steals the priceless painting by substituting a copy, but conscience forces him to restore the original. Great art is now becoming very popular in movies with "The Naked Maja" based on Goya's painting, and "Deluxe Tour" a story of a masterpiece.

I was curious about Palance and Virginia who separate and then reconcile. Although they are estranged now, Jack is having her and the three children visit him in Switzerland this summer before he starts "Smile of a Woman" for Producer Philip Waxman in Paris.

Flash to Lee Remick in Ishpeming "Anatomy of a Murder", your red hair will be dyed platinum blonde soon after you return to Hollywood for the Jean Harlow role in "The Life of Jean Harlow."

Remember that test you made for the Harlow part for Jerry Wald a long time ago, even before you did "The Long Hot Summer?" Now Adela Rogers St. Johns' script is getting a polishing job and I get it straight, Lee, that you are elected.

Your Company, 20th Century-Fox, is sold on you as a big, big star after "These Thousand Hills" and "Anatomy of a Murder."

How wise of Gene Tierney to plan to take it easier when she leaves Menninger's Clinic this time. According to her mother, Belle, Dr. Menninger has told Gene that she is well enough to be out in the world again—but she doesn't want to take any chances. She is renting a small house in Toledo, Kans., near to the hospital and the doctors who give her security.

When her daughter Tina is out of school, she will come to Toledo to visit her mother during the summer vacation. Gene feels that her relapse earlier in the year is due to trying to resume her career too soon and also too much social activity.

Andy has a hit record in "Hawaiian Wedding Song," and is one of the famed Williams brothers who worked with Kay Thompson for years.

Paramount hopes that lightning will strike twice and they'll have as good a picture as they had with Bing.

No one blames Col. Tom Parker for thinking his boy, Elvis Presley, is the greatest thing to come down the pike (not with all the moola Elvis has piled up). But Parker's plans to celebrate Presley's release from the Army are ambitious even for the good colonel: He's setting up a closed circuit TV show from Memphis, showing step by step Elvis' reentry into civilian life, aimed at selling a million tickets in theatres across the country; of course this is not until March 26, 1960.

Meanwhile, contracts continue to stack up for Elvis. Hal Wallis tore up the old deal and has a new contract for four films with Mr. Swivel Hips and 20th Century-Fox has him tied up for two.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

Nothing can add more flattery than rouge.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Your Most Effective Cosmetic

Of all the cosmetics, women seem to misuse rouge the most.

Perhaps you don't realize it, but rouge is your most effective cosmetic to help create the impression of a different facial type. Actresses behind the footlights have used the trick for years. It's relatively rare to have a perfectly oval face.

If you have a round face and want it to look longer, apply your rouge low on the cheekbone, comparatively close to the nose. Don't work it below the midway point of the cheek (this would make you look older). Work it down the center of the cheek. Remember, you're trying to make your face look longer, so don't put on round circles of rouge . . . that would naturally be an obvious way to accent the roundness. To see the difference . . . center round circles of rouge on your cheekbones and see how they definitely accent the roundness.

If you have a long face, apply your rouge high on the cheekbones and away from the nose: don't apply long-ish streaks of rouge which only make your face look longer.

If you have a narrow face and desire to make it look fuller, keep your rouge high up on the cheekbones. Work it out well to the edges of the cheeks.

There are three kinds of rouge to use — —cream, liquid or cake rouge. Which one is for you . . . that's a common question. Here's a general rule to follow. Apply liquid or cream rouge if your foundation is of the moist kind—cake rouge if your foundation is of the dry kind.

Whatever you use, don't apply the rouge directly to the skin. Be sure there is an undercoat or foundation first. And, start out using very little. The secret is to have it give a subtle, natural, pink olush so it will appear as if your are wearing no rouge at all. There is nothing uglier that will ruin your appearance faster than too much rouge splotched on. It makes one look years older.

But there's nothing lovelier than a naturally lovely skin. Take care of your skin, while it still has that youthful glow. Learn the "Secrets of Skin Care," from my booklet by that title. Your copy is available for 25c and a stamped, return envelope, plus request, sent to Secrets of Charm, c/o this paper.

Short-Cut To Three Rs?

Dr. Caleb Gattegno, a British educator, recently described in an interview in Paris, a new method of teaching which he declares can enable an illiterate to read after only six hours of instruction. He told of tests he conducted successfully with the technique in Ethiopia, on his return from a year's mission there for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

His system can be applied to any phonetically written lanuage, Dr. Gattegno said. It was developed in his spare time, he added, and consists mainly in rearranging into more logical groups the 231 characters of the Amharic "fidel" or alphabet. Three basic families of characters resulted — two-and-three legged; one-legged, and "no-legged."

For further simplification, he resorted to colors, which he had employed earlier in the "numbers and colors" system he devised for teaching arithmetic. It has been widely used in schools in Europe, Canada and New Zealand.

Five guards at the Ethiopian Ministry of Education in Addis Ababa were his first "subjects." Others were waiters and bellboys at a nearby hotel, and a group of telephone linemen. Five rated "very good," 13 "good" and three "fair" after the six-hour course.

CHRYSLER
1955 Rambler
Station Wagons
We have in stock two Cross Country Ramblers with carrying racks on top. Both are white with a red two tone finish and spotless interiors. Both are 6 cylinder engines. One has an overdrive, the other automatic transmission. Both have radio, heater, defroster, reclining seats (that you can make into a bed), signal lights, foam rubber seats and good tires. Both mechanically in A-1 condition. If you are thinking of a used car, see one of these before buying as the gas mileage is high and the cost of operation low. These wagons carry a high trade-in value so they are a bargain at our low price. Your choice at only

Politician Asks Land Deal For DMV Site Canceled

BALTIMORE (AP)—A political figure who owns stock in a corporation which holds land on which the State plans to erect a new Department of Motor Vehicles building suggested Wednesday that the deal be called off.

Irvin Kovens, an adviser to Mayor-elect J. Harold Grady of Baltimore, said that "as far as I am concerned, I think we would be better off."

The State Board of Public Works agreed Monday to buy a 13-acre site off Ritchie Highway in Anne Arundel County at $12,500 an acre from the Plantation Realty Co.

Kovens, who holds about one-third of the firm's stock, said he "personally was opposed to the sale at the price offered by the State. I feel that the price should have been higher."

He said two appraisers had set the fair market value at about $15,300 and $16,000 an acre. The realty company bought the land as part of a 47 acre tract for about $5,000 an acre in January, 1958.

The State board made the purchase agreement after the State director of public improvements advised it the property had recently been appraised at $4,500 an acre.

Gov. Tawes announced Tuesday that a third appraiser, hired by the state, valued the land at $13,000 an acre, or close to the agreed sale price.

Kovens pointed out the other property in the immediate area has brought higher prices. One 22 acre site, he said, recently brought $21,000 an acre and several small tracts of an acre or less sold from $50,000, to $106,000.

East-West winners with 95 was a tie between the team of A. J. Feigus, Hugo Keller and Mrs. Norman Taylor, Mrs. Mary Deal, Mrs. John Laughlin and Mrs. Madeline Mewshaw scored 89½.

Mrs. Emerson E. Loar and Mrs. Ernest Lindsay have returned from Martinsburg where they taught in the vacation church school institute.

J. R. DePitts, Galveston, Texas, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Goldie Patch, 122 Mechanic Street.

Politician Asks Land Deal For DMV Site Canceled

BALTIMORE (AP)—A political figure who owns stock in a corporation which holds land on which the State plans to erect a new Department of Motor Vehicles building suggested Wednesday that the deal be called off.

Irvin Kovens, an adviser to Mayor-elect J. Harold Grady of Baltimore, said that "as far as I am concerned, I think we would be better off."

The State Board of Public Works agreed Monday to buy a 13-acre site off Ritchie Highway in Anne Arundel County at $12,500 an acre from the Plantation Realty Co.

Kovens, who holds about one-third of the firm's stock, said he "personally was opposed to the sale at the price offered by the State. I feel that the price should have been higher."

He said two appraisers had set the fair market value at about $15,300 and $16,000 an acre. The realty company bought the land as part of a 47 acre tract for about $5,000 an acre in January, 1958.

The State board made the purchase agreement after the State director of public improvements advised it the property had recently been appraised at $4,500 an acre.

Gov. Tawes announced Tuesday that a third appraiser, hired by the state, valued the land at $13,000 an acre, or close to the agreed sale price.

Kovens pointed out the other property in the immediate area has brought higher prices. One 22 acre site, he said, recently brought $21,000 an acre and several small tracts of an acre or less sold from $50,000 to $106,000.

Stocks Suffer Minor Drop But Features Close High

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks suffered a minor decline Wednesday but you'd never guess it by looking at the day's features.

Anything connected with electronics, atomics, rocketry or other space age specialties was in demand at prices running as much as 17½ points over the previous close—the last being the gain chalked up by Motorola, a recent market favorite.

Trading was stepped up sharply to 4,110,000 shares from 3,360,000 on Tuesday.

Thiokol Chemical New (a jet fuel issue) ran up 7¼ points to 72 on the day's heaviest trading.

Except for the glare of the soaring specialties, the market was a routine affair with prices generally narrow and weighted a bit on the downside.

Moving up in the electronics along with Motorola, Magnavox gained 8 points, General Instrument 6⅜, Hoffman Electronics 4⅜, Radio Corp. 2⅜. Only Zenith showed a loss of size, a drop of 3 points after early strength.

The aircrafts—particularly the rocket makers—were marked up. Martin rose 2⅜, General Dynamics 1¾, Bendix, North American and Northrop around 1½ points each.

Ford sparkled in a generally high auto group. It rose 1½ points while American lost a point, Chrysler 1¼ and General Motors ¾ point.

Steels had losses ranging to 3⅜ in Lukens, 1¾ in Inland, but most issues were narrow moving as steel industry labor negotiations continued.

Rails lagged all day and, except for a gain of close to 2 points in Delaware & Hudson and a rise of nearly 1 in Kansas City Southern, were lower on the day. Atlantic Coast Line, Baltimore & Ohio, Great Northern, Norfolk & Western, Southern Pacific lost a point or more.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) The grain market was mostly lower Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat was unchanged to off ⅜; corn off ⅛ to ⅞; oats unchanged to off ½; new oats unchanged to off ⅜; rye unchanged to up ⅝; soybeans off ⅜ to up ¾.

May wheat recovered most of its early loss after stop-loss selling brought the price down to within ⅜ cent of the seasonal low. Longs liquidated at the same time. The decline also seemed to start selling in the corn, soybean and oat markets. Japan was said to have purchased 1,500,000 bushels of West Coast wheat.

Corn weakened during the plunge, followed by a later advance. Exporters were early buyers of July, and commission houses and commercial interests sold. Deferred contracts were in a mixed trade. Commodity Credit Corp. export acceptances on subsidy bids totaled 1,432,000 bushels.

Oats were weak as a result of liquidation and stop-loss selling. Cash houses bought on the decline. Rye was firm and soybeans mixed after early firmness. Commission houses sold May while cash houses sold November. Oils were slightly higher and meals easier.

Outside markets were mixed. The range:

Stocks Suffer Minor Drop But Features Close High

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks suffered a minor decline Wednesday but you'd never guess it by looking at the day's features.

Anything connected with electronics, atomics, rocketry or other space age specialties was in demand at prices running as much as 17½ points over the previous close—the last being the gain chalked up by Motorola, a recent market favorite.

Trading was stepped up sharply to 4,110,000 shares from 3,360,000 on Tuesday.

Thiokol Chemical New (a jet fuel issue) ran up 7¼ points to 72 on the day's heaviest trading.

Except for the glare of the soaring specialties, the market was a routine affair with prices generally narrow and weighted a bit on the downside.

Moving up in the electronics along with Motorola, Magnavox gained 8 points, General Instrument 6⅜, Hoffman Electronics 4⅜, Radio Corp. 2⅜. Only Zenith showed a loss of size, a drop of 3 points after early strength.

The aircrafts—particularly the rocket makers—were marked up. Martin rose 2⅜, General Dynamics 1¾, Bendix, North American and Northrop around 1½ points each.

Ford sparkled in a generally high auto group. It rose 1½ points while American lost a point, Chrysler 1¼ and General Motors ¾ point.

Steels had losses ranging to 3⅜ in Lukens, 1¾ in Inland, but most issues were narrow moving as steel industry labor negotiations continued.

Rails lagged all day and, except for a gain of close to 2 points in Delaware & Hudson and a rise of nearly 1 in Kansas City Southern, were lower on the day. Atlantic Coast Line, Baltimore & Ohio, Great Northern, Norfolk & Western, Southern Pacific lost a point or more.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) The grain market was mostly lower Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat was unchanged to off ⅜; corn off ⅛ to ⅞; oats unchanged to off ½; new oats unchanged to off ⅜; rye unchanged to up ⅝; soybeans off ⅜ to up ¾.

May wheat recovered most of its early loss after stop-loss selling brought the price down to within ¾ cent of the seasonal low. Longs liquidated at the same time. The decline also seemed to start selling in the corn, soybean and oat markets. Japan was said to have purchased 1,500,000 bushels of West Coast wheat.

Corn weakened during the plunge, followed by a later advance. Exporters were early buyers of July, and commission houses and commercial interests sold. Deferred contracts were in a mixed trade. Commodity Credit Corp. export acceptances on subsidy bids totaled 1,432,000 bushels.

Oats were weak as a result of liquidation and stop-loss selling. Cash houses bought on the decline. Rye was firm and soybeans mixed after early firmness. Commission houses sold May while cash houses sold November. Oils were slightly higher and meals easier.

Outside markets were mixed. The range:

Eagles Plan Mothers Day Program Here

A. Charles Stewart Is Guest Speaker

A. Charles Stewart of Frostburg, register of wills in Allegany County, will be the guest speaker at the Mothers Day program Sunday at 2 p.m. at the home of Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

He will speak on the origin of Mothers Day and the part Eagles played in having it set aside as an annual day honoring all mothers.

Mr. Stewart, who is former mayor of Frostburg and a former county commissioner, has been a member of Frostburg Aerie 1273 for about 30 years.

Prior to Mr. Stewart's talk, some 14 candidates will be initiated into the organization by a degree team headed by John L. Farrin.

The candidates are Ralph W. Bean, Luke M. Bridges, Richard L. Clay, Donald L. Hartell, Richard W. Howell, Robert B. Knierim, John R. Ritchey, John D. Diehl, Fred Driscoll, Alonzo Hare, Milton R. Lease, Theodore Nines, William G. Patch and Marshall S. Twigg.

The first public plea for Mothers Day took place February 7, 1904 when Frank Hering, a professor at Notre Dame who became a prominent Eagle, addressed the Indianapolis aerie.

The Eagles took up the crusade. In 1911 the Kansas City aerie presented the order's first program ever dedicated entirely to mother songs, music, addresses and prayers. A year later the grand aerie passed a statute calling for observance of Mothers Day annually by every aerie.

In 1914 Congress set aside the second Sunday in May as Mothers Day. This date was sponsored by Miss Ann Jarvis of Philadelphia.

In Congress, the Eagles have been commended several times for their pioneer efforts for a Mothers Day.

A. Charles Stewart Is Guest Speaker

A. Charles Stewart of Frostburg, register of wills in Allegany County, will be the guest speaker at the Mothers Day program Sunday at 2 p.m. at the home of Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

He will speak on the origin of Mothers Day and the part Eagles played in having it set aside as an annual day honoring all mothers.

Mr. Stewart, who is former mayor of Frostburg and a former county commissioner, has been a member of Frostburg Aerie 1273 for about 30 years.

Prior to Mr. Stewart's talk, some 14 candidates will be initiated into the organization by a degree team headed by John L. Farrin.

The first public plea for Mothers Day took place February 7, 1904 when Frank Hering, a professor at Notre Dame who became a prominent Eagle, addressed the Indianapolis aerie.

The Eagles took up the crusade. In 1911 the Kansas City aerie presented the order's first program ever dedicated entirely to mother songs, music, addresses and prayers. A year later the grand aerie passed a statute calling for observance of Mothers Day annually by every aerie.

In 1914 Congress set aside the second Sunday in May as Mothers Day. This date was sponsored by Miss Ann Jarvis of Philadelphia.

In Congress, the Eagles have been commended several times for their pioneer efforts for a Mothers Day.

Armed Forces Parade Adds Three Divisions

Three additional divisions for the Armed Forces Day parade have been formed to augment the six divisions already announced, Thomas F. Conlon, parade chairman, noted yesterday.

Division Seven will be led by Blue Angels Drum Corps, of Westernport; Division Eight by Allegany High School Band and Division Nine by Allegany High School Junior Band. In addition, other parade entries include a large float, several automobiles carrying a number of girls, a number of large vehicles entered by the traffic club, and a detail from Voiture 164, 40 and 8.

Mr. Conlon said that due to the increased length of the parade, it will move on North Centre Street to Smith Street and then southward on Mechanic Street, instead of to Market Street, as originally planned.

The parade will form at 7 p.m. Monday, May 11, at the National Guard Armory, South Centre Street, and will begin to march at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. Conlon said other units from this area may still enter, if they will contact him so they can be assigned to one of the nine divisions.
